THE CHINESE are getting a touch of modern war, and don't like it. Some time ago the energetic Chang, who wants to boss China, was dropping explosives from flying machines. Now he has blown several thousand Peking troops into the air, exploding mines under them.

WHILE THE CHINESE fight each other it doesn't mean much to what we are pleased to call "western civilization."

But what will happen one of these days, after the hundreds of millions of Asiatics have thoroughly mastered our western war methods and decide to use them in extending their territory?

AN "EDUCATOR" of Minnesota is accused of punishing boys in the high school by causing them to sit in an "electric chair," causing severe burns.

In New York State, another "educator" of the same gorilla type confessed that he had beaten a little girl with a rubber hose. Her body was black and blue.

IT MIGHT CURE the man with the rubber hose to let him spend half an hour in a closed room with Wills, the negro fighter, the latter also equipped with a piece of rubber hose.

The Minnesota educator could be enlightened by a brief stay in a real electric chair, but that would be too drastic, even for that kind of stupid brutality.

MOSES H. CONE, worth many millions, feared that criminals would steal his body after death. So when he did die his body was sealed up in a great grave of reinforced concrete.

In spite of all precautions ghouls have opened the grave. They thought it must contain something very valuable.

HAVE YOU NOTICED how little men seem to think about their souls while they are alive, and how much they think about what will happen to their bodies after they are dead? A corpse left behind is no more important than a pair of worn-out shoes thrown aside. Yet men of power, from the Pharaoh that built the first Pyramid to Millionaire Cone with his concrete grave, have worried about their bodies.

The question interesting to one thinking of death should be, "Where do I go from here?" not "Who is going to steal my body?"

KINGS, IN EUROPE, seem to realize that men and conditions change. For instance, here's King Alexander, who, according to a dispatch from Belgrade, says it isn't treason for his subjects to demand a republic, or to express the opinion that they ought to get rid of him. "I do not ask any man to relinquish his principles," says he. "We live in modern times."

HUNGARIAN STUDENTS, demanding the expulsion of Jews from classes in anatomy, have caused the closing of an important college. The students, if you please, complain because in the anatomy class, where bodies are furnished for dissection, no Jewish bodies are furnished. The reason is that the Jewish community guarantees decent burial to all unidentified Jewish dead. Therefore none drift to the dissection room. Plenty of Christian bodies arrive to be cut up, because nobody cares to bury them.

Nevertheless, the anti-Semitic students demand that Jewish as well as Christian bodies shall be dissected. The Minister of the Interior says, "While the students act unlawfully, I sympathize with them. I cannot punish Hungarian youth for a few Jews."

THAT'S TOO BAD, but, as you remember, the whole of Europe was punished, twenty million lives were sacrificed. Hungary and Austria were reduced to beggary and humiliation, all because a Serbian happened to shoot one rather worthless grand duke. What about that?

$100,000 FIRE IN CHURCH

First Baptist Edifice in Arlington Swept by Flames; Probe Origin

Fire of suspicious origin today swept the First Baptist Church edifice, Massachusetts avenue and Bartlett street, Arlington, and endangered adjacent residences.

Two blazes were discovered in the church at 6 a. m. The combined efforts of the Arlington, Medford and Somerville fire departments failed to check the blaze. The damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

Clarence T. Carberry, No. 172 Renfrew street, Arlington, noticed smoke pouring from the windows as he passed on his way to work. He sounded an alarm. Entering the auditorium, it is said, the firemen found two separate fires burning. Although heavy streams of water were directed into the heart of the building the blaze rapidly spread.

CALL FOR HELP.

Calls for extra men were sounded, and then the fire departments of Medford and Somerville were summoned. The Rev. Henry Sterling Potter, D. D., pastor of the church, was notified and he hurried to his church.

Sparks set fire to the homes of Harvey C. Merrill, No. 9 Willow place, and Roscoe C. Young, No. 795 Massachusetts avenue. These fires were quickly extinguished.

One theory entertained by the investigators is that defective wiring in the organ may have ignited woodwork and that a spark may have leaped from that blaze to start another some distance away.

Another suspicious church fire that is the subject of an investigation is that which destroyed the Congregational church in Concord three weeks ago. The loss there was more than $80,000.

SECOND TO BURN.

The church burned today was built in 1901 to replace a church burned down in the previous year.

During today's blaze street car traffic along Massachusetts avenue was delayed by the placing of many lines of hose across the car tracks.

ASK POLICE STRIKE PROBE

Boston Social Club Urges Tribunal of Three to Answer Its Questions

An impartial tribunal of three men, which shall review the evidence in the Boston police strike of 1919, and decide whether President Coolidge or the former Mayor Peters was responsible for the famous "law and order" program, is urged by Michael Lynch, representing the Boston Social Club, composed of striking police officers.

The request is the latest issue in the three-cornered fight which followed the Democratic National Committee's charge that ex-Mayor Peters, not Coolidge, when Governor of Massachusetts, acted in such a way as to avert a catastrophe.

Ex-Mayor Peters has taken issue with supporters of President Coolidge who have opposed the charges of the Democratic National Committee.

Ex-President Lynch of the Boston Social Club suggests these questions be investigated.

Were the Boston policemen justified in complaining against the working conditions which obtained at that time?

MEDFORD 'DARK' AND FLOODED DURING FIRE

Telephone and ligting services in Medford Hillside were crippled, hundreds of families were compelled to do without water, streets were torn up, sewerage and draining systems were flooded and geysers shot up from street manholes when water was forced through the defective mains in Medford to aid firemen fighting a church fire in Arlington.

An old break in the high pressure water main at Boston avenue and Winthrop street, Medford Hillside, was open when it became necessary to supply more water for the fire apparatus from Arlington, Somerville and Medford battling in Arlington.

As soon as the water was sent into the main it burst through the vent in the pipe. Street paving was rent, the water gushed through man holes and penetrating to all of the underground systems that carry away drainage and sewage and protect the subterreanean wire systems. Not until the Arlington fire had been extinguished was it possible to mend the break and check the flood.

Chicago - London Zeppelin Mail Line Forecast

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Air mail direct from Chicago to London is possible within a few years, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, commander of the naval air forces, declared in an address before the Chicago chapter of the Izaak Walton League here.

"Air mail routes will soon be a possibility between London and New York," he said. "In three days your friends in Paris and London can get your letters. This will be possible as soon as we start building larger ships than the ZR-3 and the Shenandoah. These ships will be able to maintain a speed of more than 100 miles an hour en route."

CROWD FIGHTS POLICE AS 4 ARE HANGED

Montreal, Oct. 23.—Amid the greatest secrecy and while a crowd of thousands fought with police outside, four murderers of a bank messenger in the $142,000 Hochelaga Bank hold-up last April were hanged here today.

The four who died were Giuseppe Sarafini, Anthony Frank, Frank Gambino, and Louis Moral. A fifth man, who was to have been executed with them, Michael Valentino, was given a reprieve by the cabinet at the eleventh hour.

That the men were dead was told the crowd outside by a black flag that shot jerkily up the staff over the prison when all the traps had been sprung. The executions took place without unforseen event.

Moral and Gambino were the first to die. Moral displayed courage such as seldom has been seen by the executioners. He walked to the gibbet with a firm step, spurning assistance. He died without a tremor. While his companions had mumbled prayers night and day, Moral had amused himself with setting up exercises in his cell.

Gambino was visibly affected. Frank, once a king of the Montreal underworld, went to pieces at the last moment. He was nearly in collapse.

Serafini protested his innocence to the last.

The executions took place in the Bordeaux prison. It might have been a country fair, not a quadruple execution, that took place in Bordeaux prison, to judge from the crowds that flocked about the reservation, where they could hope to see nothing more than the stone walls.

CROWD COMES EARLY

The first of the curious to gather arrived between three and five o'clock. Constables permitted none to stop near the prison. Inside the gates were 25 provincial police.

After dawn the police were unable to handle the mob and reserves were

SURVIVORS OF WRANGEL ISLAND REACH SIBERIA

CHALLENGE TO DEATH BY SUITOR

Offered Poison to Woman He Shot and "Other Man" So All Three Would Die

A triple suicide pact, for which he dramatically furnished three capsules filled with cyanide of potassium, was the solution of the Naples (Me.) love triangle sought by one of the principals.

It was Leroy Morgan, Allston salesman, who announced that he would kill himself if his sweetheart, Mrs. Harriet Provan, wife of a Brookline dentist, and Lawrence MacElwan, third figure in the triangle, also swallowed one of the poison capsules.

This unusual situation is revealed by Mrs. Frank G. Wright, wife of Captain Wright of the Massachusetts State police, who was in the Naples farmhouse when Morgan broke into a room of the building in which were Mrs. Provan and MacElwan. Morgan shot Mrs. Provan through the arm and in turn was shot by Captain Wright, aroused from his slumbers by the first shot.

"DREW OUT CAPSULES."

According to Mrs. Wright, when order had been restored in the farmhouse, and it was discovered that the shot in Mrs. Provan's arm, the bullet wound in Morgan's back and the injury sustained by Captain Wright to his hand, were not serious, Morgan made his wild proposal.

"He drew three capsules from his pocket," said Mrs. Wright.

"Turning to MacElwan, he held out one of the capsules. 'Here, if you want to prove how much you love this woman, take this poison and die. I'll show you how much I love her by taking one right away.' He also extended one of the capsules to Mrs. Provan and nodded for her to take it.

"Other members of the party seized the capsules before Morgan could carry out his threat of ending his own life."

Mrs. Provan and her husband, Dr. Walter Fairfield Provan, Boston dentist, arrived at their Brookline home after a hectic trip from the fateful scene of the tragedy in Maine.

Morgan, who is married and the father of two children, is in the Maine State Hospital and will be arraigned at Portland, Me., when he is able, charged with breaking and entering in the night and assault with intent to kill.

Lawrence MacElwan, third man in the picture, also married, of Gloucester, has left the little Maine town where he was the cause of the unique ragedy.

"I was awakened around 3 o'clock Wednesday morning by the sound of three shots fired upstairs," declared Mrs. Wright, hostess to Mrs. Provan and MacElwan.

"I awakened my husband and snatching the revolver he keeps

Woman was bailed out by her husband, a Brookline dentist, after arrest following shooting by Leroy A. Morgan of Allston at a house in Naples, Me. MELLON ASKED TO RULE ON TAX PUBLICITY

Washington, Oct. 24.—While lawyers disagreed and publishers waited for advice, the treasury remained silent today on the uestion of how far newspapers can go under the new tax law in publishing income tax returns.

In conformity with the law, orders have been issued to internal revenue collectors to open to inspection the records of their offices showing how much each taxpayer contributed to the National Treasury on last year's income.

COUNTER NOTICE.

However, someone discovered and promulgate das a treasury notice another section of the law which declares it "unlawful for any person to print or publish in any manner whatever not provided by law any income tax return or any part thereof or source of income, profits, losses or expenditures appearing in any income tax return." The section carries a penalty of $1,000 fine or one year's imprisonment.

The treasury order calling attention to that section did so without comment. Some newspapers, after consultation with counsel, printed details of tax returns that had become available at the revenue collector's offices in their localities under the previous order of the department.

APPEAL TO MELLON.

Others withheld publication and today Secretary Mellon's office was flooded with inquiries from publishers asking for a definite ruling. Mellon has referred the matter to the Department of Justice.

The decision appeared likely to hinge on that part of the non-publication section which prohibited publication "in any manner whatever not provid edby law." Neither treasury experts nor Department of Justice lawyers were willing at the moment to venture an opinion as to what scope might be covered by this clause, all inquiries being referred to those higher up .

DAVIS LEADS IN AMERICAN'S POLL OF LYNN

No matter what Democrats elsewhere in Massachusetts may be going to do, a great many Lynn Democrats will vote for John W. Davis.

This was indicated on the 27th day of the Boston American's Presidential Preference Poll when, out of 551 Shoe City voters who express their preferences through the medium of the straw ballot, 248 declared for Davis.

Senator La Follette was made second choice in Lynn, scoring 158 votes against the 145 that went to Coolidge.

Another Davis stronghold discovered in this day's poll is East Cambridge. There the vote was:

Davis, 72; Coolidge, 41; La Follette, 18.

The Senator from Wisconsin did not fare as well as usual. He did poorly on the day, but he still maintains a very slight lead over the Democrat. Mr. Coolidge has pulled further away from his nearer rival, but in a total of 24,063 votes is 1,268 votes short of a majority.

The vote was the largest cast in any one day since the ballotting under his pillow, he dashed upstairs. I followed him.

"There, in the darkness, facing Morgan, who held a revolver in his hand, we found Mrs. Provan coolly ordering MacElwan to make his escape. With only a flashlight for a weapon, she held Morgan at bay and directed us how me might enter the room, out of range of his gun.

"When he had finally succumbed to her, calm, and had surrendered the revolver and a watch he presented her, he broke out, hysterically: 'I've loved you for years and you care nothing for me! I am crazy for your love!'

"'I'm sick of you!' Mrs. Provan cried. 'You have dogged me and annoyed me for years and I have tried my best to be rid of you!'

"With this, Morgan picked Mrs. Provan up bodily and flung her to the floor. At this juncture, my husband succeeded in getting the range on Morgan, and opening fire upon him, felled him with a shot in the back.

"Captain Wright was hurt accidentally with the backfire of the gun.

"When quiet had been established again, Morgan sat down and drew three poison pellets from his pocket and offering one to MacElwan, said:

"'Swallow this and prove how much you love this woman.'

"Turning to Mrs. Provan, he said: 'You show this man how much you care for him and swallow one, too. And I will take the third.'" called from every station in the city that could spare them.

Searchlights that had whitened the sky all night, played on the crowds in the pre-dawn hours.

TWO LIVES SAVED

The cabinet, in sparing Valentino also commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Leo Davis, who was to have been hanged at a later date. Last minute statements made by the condemned men, in which they agreed that Valentino and Davis were mere tools in their hands, saved the two.

Of the $142,000 taken in the hold-up, $100,000 never has been recovered.

Moral wrote two letters, one to his daughters and one for publication. The letter follows:

"To my Creator—I offer you my death in a spirit of reparation for all the sins of my life. Lastly, I offer you my death as an act of perfect love, as a last act of love for earth. I pardon all and I implore the Holy Virgin to appease the anger of God, and to preserve me from eternal malediction."

The letter was written with a steady hand.

PRINCE ASLEEP AS HIS TRAIN PULLS OUT

Throng at Lowell Station Disappointed After the Visitor Fails to Wave Farewell

Light sounds, semi-staccato but measured in the beat, came from a private car at the Middlesex street station of the Boston & Maine in Lowell today—the car rolled out on the main line—and the Prince of Wales, still earnestly sleeping, was gone from the Bay State.

More than six hours, David Windsor, heir apparent to the British throne, had tripped the light fantastic in Hamilton, while a band of Lowell residents who had missed a sight of him yesterday, stayed up all night, waiting heavy-eyed for a glimpse of the Prince when he returned to his car.

That was all they did get—a fleeting sight. But that was more than a disappointed throng today garnered, for the Prince, after tumbling into the royal berth shortly before seven o'clock this morning, drifted deep into slumberland and remained there.

TWO DISAPPOINTED.

Two elderly ladies, waiting patiently at the Lowell station, each clasping a bunch of roses, evinced bitter disappointment when the special train pulled out for New York at 9:13 and they were unable to present their posies to royalty.

PLEASED WITH VISIT.

Wales reserved formal expression of his appreciation of American hospitality since he came to this country in August for a statement to be issued in New York tonight. Members of his party said, however, that he was greatly pleased with his reception and entertainment in America.

A plan to visit South Africa will occupy the Prince next year, it was said, but Wales has indicated that he hopes to come here again in 1926, this time on the more serious mission of inquiring into American manufacturing methods.

The train bearing the Prince and his party is due to arrive in New York about noon and shortly before midnight the party will board the Olympia for the return trip to England.

Dancing until a few minutes after 4 a. m., the Prince was almost physically exhausted when he bade his host, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., good-by, a moment before he stepped aboard the train.

Fifteen minutes after the heir to the British throne disappeared within his private car, the narrow rim of light about the window of the royal compartment disappeared and the throng of watchers about the station knew that the Prince's connection with the Bay State was ended as far as the regal visitor was concerned.

Originally, it had been planned for the Prince to leave the ballroom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence at Gravelly Brook Farm at midnight.

CHANGES PLAN.

So thoroughly did the Prince enjoy himself on the dancing floor, however, that he changed his plans and shortly before midnight announced that he would remain for several hours.

The dancing continued uninterruptedly, with the Prince dancing almost every number on the program. A few minutes after 4 the Prince and his attendants retired from the ballroom, after bidding farewell to their host and hostess.

The Prince's favorite partner, among the more than thirty ladies present was Miss Ella Snelling of Boston and Beverly Farms.

The Prince's hosts closely guarded the "secret" as to whom the royal guest favored, declaring he "probably danced with all once or twice." Reporters of the American, however, looked on at the dance and saw who were his partners.

TAKEN TO TABLE, TOO.

Time after time the Prince asked Miss Snelling to dance. He danced with her five times in the period of an hour and a half preceding a buffet supper, which was served in the dining hall at 1:30.

Then he gave his arm to the same girl. They also danced many times together early in the evening and after the supper.

He also danced with Mrs. John S. Lawrence, Mrs. Phyllis Sears Tuckerman, Miss Olivia Ames, Miss Theodora Ayer, Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., and others.

The Prince was the youngest looking man at the affair, although several of the guests were actually younger in years. His flushed cheeks and light, curly hair more became a boy than a man of thirty. He was dressed in regulation tuxedo.

PRINCE CALLED 'SIR' BY MEN GUESTS

The Prince found all the other guests present when he arrived in the Tuckerman motor car.

He was accompanied by his three aides, Captain Allen F. Lascelles, Major E. D. Metcalfe and Brig.-Gen. G. F. Trotter.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence met him at the door. Mrs. Lawrence is an old friend of the Prince, having dined with him at his invitation while he was on Long Island.

The visitor was then led into a great living room in the mansion, and there each guest in turn was introduced to him.

The ladies advanced, curtsied and shook hands. The men merely shook hands. All addressed the Prince as "Sir."

AS PRINCE, NOT BARON.

The form of introduction was, "May I present Mrs. So-andSo, Sir?"

The Prince was a guest at the Lawrences, as at the Tuckermans and elsewhere in Massachusetts, as the Prince of Wales, not as Baron Renfrew or any other "incog" title.

The Prince went in to dinner on the arm of his hostess of the evening, Mrs. Lawrence. Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., who in social parlance was the "guest of honor,"—being the other hostess—went in to dinner on the arm of Mr. Lawrence. This couple brought up the rear of the line.

The dinner was informal. When it was over the Prince and Mrs. Lawrence, followed by the others, adjourned to the living-rooms. There was coffee and smoking.

Mrs. Lawrence was attractively gowned in gray velvet dress with fur trimming. She wore silver slippers and carried a very long pink ostrich feather fan.

DANCED WITH CHILD.

Just as dancing was about to begin, and the guests were making their way into the dance hall, where the orchestra was tuning up, little Isabel Lawrence appeared.

Her father had advised the Prince that she was coming downstairs to meet him. She is an attractive little blue-eyed, blonde girl and is a student at the Beaver School in Brookline.

She was dressed in a simple little straight blue dress with white stockings and black slippers. She curtsied when she was presented to the royal heir, and they shook hands. She then became the first partner of the Prince.

GROUNDS HEAVILY GUARDED.

Secret Service guards, State officers and local police watched the house and grounds of the Lawrence estate, "Gravelly Brook Farm," during the evening.

The Prince of Wales on his vacation trip to New England dined at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence at Gravely Brook Farm, Topsfield.

Miss Refuses to Stir to See Prince of Wales

Walk a mile to see the Prince of Wales?

No, Siree! Not Miss Beatrice Hancock of Fall River, Boston University law student, in whose opinion an honest day's labor is worth more than a title.

"Give me a plain, honest-to-goodness American and I will walk a mile to meet him. But when it comes to the Prince of Wales—two feet is my limit," she declares.

This democratic young woman prefers the thrills of dancing with her own countrymen to the distinction of dancing with any Englishman.

JAP WARSHIPS AND TROOPS TO CHINA

Tokio, Oct. 24 (I.N.S.)—The Prince Regent today approved a war office order sending two battalions of troops from Port Arthur to Shanghai-Kuan for the protection of Japanese interests along the Peking-Mukden railroad which is owned by Japanese capital.

Tien Tsin dispatches reported stringent rules had been promulgated by Wu Pei Fu in this area for the conduct of Japanese Nationals and the arrest of all acting suspiciously was ordered.

The Foreign Office stated that inasmuch as "only two companies" had been ordered to Shanghai Kuan, it had not been necessary to consult the other powers. It was said this force was included in the quota authorized in the Boxer protocol as railway guards.

Japanese warships, which have been standing by at Shanghai during the fighting about that city, were today ordered to proceed at once to Shanghai-Kuan.

Former Premier May Be Made President

London, Oct. 24.—Reuter's Hong Kong correspondent reports that Feng Yu-Hsiang, who is in control of Peking, will possibly replace President Tsao Kun by former Premier Tuan Chi Jui.

Tuan Chi Jui was one of the most prominent of the military commanders who signed the memorial to the throne urging the Emperor to abdicate, and was Minister of War in the first Republican Cabinet.

He opposed Tsan Kun and Wu Pei-Fu in the fighting of 1920, when the combined Chihli and Fengtien forces marched on Peking.

General Executed for Wholesale Grafting

Peking, Oct. 23 (A.P.)—Feng Yu-Hsiang, "The Christian General," who returned to Peking with his army to oerthrow the government under whose banner he was supposed to be fighting the invading armies of General Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian leader ,ordered the execution of General Li Yeng-Cheng, private secretary to President Tsao Kun, after General Li had been questioned today concerning charges of wholesale financial irregularities. The presidential bodyguard has been completely disarmed and the cabinet is being carried on under Premier Yen.

General Feng announced that he intends to break the dictatorship maintained by General Wu Pei-Fu and to aid in establishing a new government in which would be incorporated the various factions hostile to each other at present.

In a proclamation which included a warning that "rumor mongers will be executed," General Feng said: "The Republic has been at war thirteen years. As a result commerce is impossible and the nation has been subjected to great losses in a war which nobody understands. I desire to stop this war and to make peace."

STRIKE PROBE IS ASKED BY EX-POLICE

Boston Social Club Urges Impartial Inquiry in Coolidge-Peters Fight

Were not plans made, months before the police strike actually occurred, to leave the city of Boston at the mercy of "mob rule" the moment that the police were forced to strike?

Was it not planned to force a strike of the Boston Fire Department when the Boston Police Department struck?

Was it not a fact that for some time before the policemen went on strike, recruiting was under way for a reserve police force and were there not approximately 1,000 reserve policemen ready for duty at the hour of the strike?

Why was it that the Governor of Massachusetts, the Mayor of Boston and the Sheriff of Suffolk County did not exercise their powers under the law to call the State Guard when the policemen struck?

MORE QUESTIONS.

Why did not the Governor of Massachusetts, as Commander-in-Chief, exercise his authority to call out the State Guard before or at the moment the policemen went out?

If the striking policemen violated their oaths of office, as claimed by some persons, did not the Governor of this Commonwealth violate his oath of office in remaining silent and inactive until the Mayor of Boston took action?

If the Governor could conscientiously take over control of the State Guard and of the police who remained on duty, after order had been restored, why could he not have done so before?

Is it not a fact that when Mayor Peters tried to get Governor Coolidge to intercede with the Police Commissioner, the Governor told the Mayor—in the words of the Boston Post of September 10, 1919—"to mind his own business?" Or in the language actually used by the Governor in his letter to the Mayor under date of September 9th, 1919,—"It seems to me that there has arisen a confusion which would be cleared up if each person undertakes to perform the duties imposed upon him by law."

Was a code message sent from New York to a prominent Boston financier to the effect that the Boston police strike then impending, should by no means be allowed to be settled—that the men should be forced to strike?

As a result of that code message were plans perfected to effectually prevent any effort on the part of the Mayor and the citizens committee to settle the difficulties then existing without recourse to a strike?

Was it because of that code message that counsel for the police commissioner declined to permit a certain letter from the Citizens Committee, signed by James J. Storrow, to be delivered to the Commissioner?

ASKS OF MEETING.

Was there a meeting at Lancaster, Mass., at which were present various public officials and counsel, at which secret plans were perfected for insuring the certainty of a strike by Boston policemen?

Who were the officials and counsel who were present at that meeting?

Why was it when the State Guard and the police force of Boston were under command of the Governor of the Commonwealth, that certain officers of the State Guard who held commissions from the Governor as justices of the municipal courts were allowed to sit on the bench, in full State Guard uniform, passing judgment on cases prosecuted by their own subordinates?

Without any intended reflection upon the individual judges concerned, was it right, proper, legal or ethical for these men to be allowed to exercise such dual functions?

TUCKERMAN SERVANTS GREETED BY HIS HIGHNESS

Three of the proudest persons in the Tuckerman home are Helen Graham, a Scotch parlor maid; Edgar, the butler, and Thomas L. Coyne, the Tuckerman chauffeur who drove the Prince. Each was greeted cordially by the royal visitor, who spoke briskly with them. Miss Graham, the maid, has been in the Tuckerman household since Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman returned from their last trip abroad. Edgar has been with the family for a long time and young Coyne has driven the Tuckermans for seven years.

The Tuckerman entourage of eleven house servants, three stablemen, one kennelman, two farmers and a chauffeur, was enlarged by the addition of an extra chef and fifteen extra waiters.

3 SPILLED FROM BEDS WHEN HOUSE FALLS IN

Lowell, Mich., Oct. [illegible]—Though three sleeping occupants of the building were thrown from their beds, none was injured when the home of Leroy Chambers, a farmer, five miles south of here, raised preparatory to putting in a new wall, tipped sidewise into the basement.

A sewing machine was forced through a window and a parlor organ was impaled on a post.

GIRL STUDENT AND SWEETHEART "BROKE," REFUSED LICENSE

CITY HALL CLERK BALKS HER SECOND ROMANCE

Caroline May Belknap, twenty-two-year-old student, and James Ryan of No. 71 Carver street, walked into the marriage intentions bureau and applied for a license to wed.

It was then discovered that Caroline, whose father is Willis C. Belknap, editor of the Bellows Falls (Vt.) Times, had been in before.

On July 9, 1924, Theodore Warren Bradford, 21-year-old student of No. 8 Wrentham Park, Dorchester, filed intentions to wed Caroline, and a license was granted on which there has been no return.

The girl explained it by saying that Bradford in a fit of rage had torn up the license, and the marriage was off. Now, she said, she wants to marry Ryan, whose home is in Portland, Me., and who is said to be 21 years of age.

As the authorities were somewhat dissatisfied with the explanation Assistant Registrar Cohalan suggested that the girl's parents be consulted. This was done, and it was learned they believed her married to Bradford, according to Coholan. Also they thought their daughter attended the New England Conservatory of Music.

The license to marry Ryan was therefore held up, pending the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Belknap who had left for Boston. In the meantime Mr. Cohalan staked the prospective bride to $5, she being without funds.

Aid From Surrounding Towns Called to Escanaba; Coal Docks Are Damaged

Escanaba, Mich., Oct. 24 (I.N.S.).—Firemen from Escanaba and neighboring towns were still battling today with fire in the Reiss Coal Company's docks, causing loss of one life and of property estimated at $500,000. Docks Nos. 3 and 4 were destroyed.

Fearing the fire would spread to the city, firemen summoned aid from nearby towns. Only the fact that there was no wind saved the city, firemen said.

Danger today also threatened the coal piles, comprising thousands of tons. The piles were ablaze in a dozen places.

Dog Saves Seven and Dies Trying to Save Master

Pittsfield, Oct. 24. — A dog saved the lives of seven persons and lost its own life in returning to the burning building on the State reservation at Monterey in search of the master who was away from home for the night.

"Flash," a bulldog, discovered the house afire in the early morning hours and awakened Mrs. Barney Mazzolini and six children, who escaped from the building in their night clothes.

Not seeing its master among those rescued the animal dashed back into the burning structure and was lost.

PATROLMAN DID NOT REPORT AUTO CRASH

Anthony Tobin Before Trial Board; Pleads Errand of Mercy

An errand of mercy prevented Patrolman Anthony M. Tobin of the Dudley street station from being at his post of duty, according to a story he told before a trial board of captains when he appeared at police headquarters today to answer charges of leaving Boston without permission and failing to answer roll call at his station house.

Patrolman Tobin testified that on the day he was absent he was requested by Dr. Joseph Reardon, 67 Warren street, Roxbury, a dentist, to drive to a sanatorium in Sharon to take Dr. Reardon's mother to her home.

Accompanied by the dentist and his sister the patrolman went to Sharon and called for the sick woman. Returning to Roxbury the automobile driven by the patrolman was ditched in Dedham when the steering knuckle broke. Patrolman Tobin and his passengers transferred to another machine and continued to their destination. In the excitement attending the accident, the patrolman declared, he forgot to report to his superior officers.

The officers of the trial board submitted their findings and recommendations to Police Commissioner Wilson.

$8,000,000 LOSS LAID TO DAYLIGHT SAVING

"There is no use to talk about encouraging agriculture, so long as the daylight saving law is on the books," declared Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Commissioner of Agriculture, in an address before the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs at the Public Library.

"The farmer is disheartened under the loss of labor and other losses caused by daylight saving," declared Dr. Gilbert. "The added cost of $8,000,000 yearly to the farmer under daylight saving goes on our food bill."

SITUATION IN INDIANA AS IN MAINE

But Klan Control of G. O. P. May Lead to Defeat at Polls

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

Indianapolis, Oct. 24 (Universal).—The conditions in Indiana are very much as they were in Maine. Here, the Grand Dragon of the Klan took charge of the Republican party and dictated the nomination of Jackson, his candidate for the Governorship.

Ten of the twelve State candidates are klansmen, or indorsed by the Klan.

Here, as in Maine, the Old Guard is savagely knifing Jackson and the other Klan candidates within their party. They say they would rather lose all the State paronage during the few years that Dr. McCulloch, the Democratic nominee, would be Governor, than lose their organization to the Klan.

OFFICIALS CONVICTED.

There are some differences between here and Maine. The Governor there, who backed Brewster to the limit, was an exceptionally clean and two-fisted Progressive, who for eight years has fought off the private power interests, trying to get a stranglehold on Maine's enormous water resources. Brewster was himself progressive in many hings. The party was without scandal. It could lose one-tenth its entire vote and sill have enough to spare.

The Governor of Indiana is here no more. He's in Atlanta, guilty of embezzlement. The clerk of the biggest County in the State was sent away for embezzling $140,000. The Governor had defrauded 200 banks of a million dollars; a judge, a prosecuting attorney, and mayor, ll Republican, have been found guilty of being part of a rum-running ring. Jackson, himself, had, unfortunately, indorsed a fly-by-night, blue-sky outfit, which took $38,000,000 of Indiana's money and then collapsed.

KLAN INTERESTING.

The Klan claims to have 80,000 members. It also advertised a parade of 80,000 Klansmen, yet only 6,500 showed up in a mask and gown. The politicians estimate 200,000 Klansmen here, of that near 75,000 are guessed to be Democrats. There are about 45,000 Roman Catholics who vote in the Republican party, ordinarily. There are about 55,000 negro voters, usually dyed-in-the-wool Republicans, many of whom have enrolled in the Independent Voters League, a new adjunct of the Democrats organized to capture the colored vote.

It is new enough to be interesting. Every politician on the job, every one who habitates the political headquarters and most of the men and women who are stopped on the street, agree that Dr. McCullough will win.

Remember the Maine election.

Little change is apparent in the political situation in New England, if anything, the President having strengthened his position. Today's figures from the other States in the section come from the Bangor Commercial and the Kennebec Journal, in Maine, and from representatives of the Boston American in Burlington, Vt., and in Bristol and Pawtucket, R. I.

Followers of the Third Party, and Democrats who will vote for the Presidential nominee of their party, expect great things from the promised visits of Senator La Follette and Mr. Davis.

WATSON IN LA FOLLETTE PARADE TONIGHT

Following along Blue Hill avenue the automobiles will next stop at the corner of Quincy street, and the last stop in the route as planned will be Franklin Park, Dorchester.

Figures Give La Follette Supremacy Only in Home State, Wisconsin

New York, Oct. 24. (Universal).—The Literary Digest's postcard Presidential poll has now received 2,300,484 votes from forty-eight States. The 400,000 votes received last week show a slight trend from La Follette to Davis. The total vote, week by week, and the percentage for each candidate, has been:

The returns by States in the Digest poll show overwhelming Coolidge pluralities in every so-called doubtful State, except California, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia.

The New England States, including Rhode Island, are so overwhelmingly for Coolidge in the Digest poll that the detailed figures are uninteresting.

SOUTH UNSHAKEN.

Likewise, the Democracy of the "Solid South" for Davis is unshaken, so that the detailed vote of those States is unimportant.

La Follette, in the Digest vote, shows supremacy in only a single State, his own, Wisconsin. But his vote is so large throughout the Northwest, from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Coast and in all the Pacific Coast States, that he has forced Davis into third place.

The vote of the vitally important States, including the doubtful border and western States, in the Digest poll is:

	Coolidge	Davis	Lafollette
Arizona	4,188	1,950	2,220
California	76,049	10,155	65,050
Colorado	19,014	4,663	6,072
Connecticut	19,706	2,982	3,662
Delaware	2,799	1,333	340
Idaho	5,777	1,499	3,540
Illinois	97,871	19,291	38,644
Indiana	56,207	20,217	11,396
Iowa	44,187	9,830	21,163
Kansas	30,910	8,744	8,728
Kentucky	13,834	13,853	2,951
Maryland	11,423	8,309	4,777
Michigan	70,822	8,402	21,653
Minnesota	36,755	5,582	20,382
Missouri	46,361	30,991	10,581
Montana	7,607	1,773	4,460
Nebraska	20,693	8,832	8,771
Nevada	1,152	332	865
New Jersey	43,866	8,241	9,505
New Mexico	2,818	1,748	1,610
New York	153,771	33,812	54,461
No. Dakota	7,274	.....	4,737
Ohio	86,359	22,616	29,380
Oklahoma	21,378	17,929	5,660
Oregon	18,224	5,186	8,640
Pennsylvania	83,471	17,733	25,146
So. Dakota	7,210	1,585	5,237
Tennessee	11,566	15,304	2,066
Utah	4,986	1,910	2,378
Washington	25,620	4,630	16,052
W. Virginia	15,352	12,049	2,108
Wyoming	3,312	716	1,504
Total	1,293,378	487,782	496,006

In its similar postcard poll, on a smaller scale, in the last Presidential election the Digest forecast proved to be about 12 per cent. too high on the Republican and 10 per cent. too low on the Democratic vote.

If the Digest vote errs only in the same degree this year, Coolidge's election is indicated by large majorities in the old-time pivotal States of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kansas, Nebraska, and Colorado, according to the Digest poll. Also, Delaware, Maryland, and West Virginia (Davis' own State) are safe for Coolidge, while Tennessee and Kentucky which were carried by Harding four years ago, are doubtful.

COOLIDGE FAVORITE IN POLL AT HARVARD

John Harvard is strong for Cal. Coolidge.

The most ambitious pre-election poll ever undertaken at the university closed at midnight, with the recording of 4,583 votes and of this number, Coolidge received more than Davis and LaFollette combined.

The total vote recorded in the poll follows:

Coolidge	2,573
Davis	1,200
La Follette	789
Foster	21

Of the 4,583 votes cast there were 1,542 from the undergraduates who have not yet reached voting age.

CHARGES OKLAHOMA ELECTION CROOKEDNESS

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 24.—Charging from the Bench that "there is a conspiracy in the State Capitol and State Election Board to deny the right of voting to certain citizens because of race or color," Federal District Judge F. E. Kennamer has announced his intention to call a special session of a Federal Grand Jury after the election to investigate "election crookedness" in Oklahoma.

NORWAY MAY CONDUCT LIQUOR REFERENDUM

Christiania, Oct. 24 (I.N.S.)—Despite the rumored divisions among the Agrarians, considered a complicating factor in the working of a coalition cabinet, it was learned today that many Agrarians favor prohibition and the chances for abolition of the dry laws appear light. It is probable that a new referendum will be held.

COOLIDGE PUTS EMPHASIS ON ECONOMY

President to Work for Tax Reductions, He Tells U. S. Commerce Chamber

Washington, Oct. 24 Universal—President Coolidge promises a further reduction in taxes next year, provided his policy of "drastic economy" is followed by Congress. The speech constituted a pledge of what the President will undertake to do if he is re-elected.

In his last purely political speech of the campaign, Mr. Coolidge reiterated his warning that the United States will handle its domestic affairs without interference by the League of Nations.

The President pledged Government aid to the farmer, assailed the La Follette proposals for Government ownership of railways and limitation of Supreme Court powers, and expressed the conviction that "the general economic condition of the country is good."

NEED PROTECTION.

Mr. Coolidge spoke before a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United State prefacing his address with observations upon the necessity for "order and security." Without safety for life and property, he sid, nations rich in resources have been unable to progress financially "because in them there has been no accumulation or investment of capital." Continuing, he said:

"We cannot be oblivious to all human history. We must have local police protection, supported by such an army and navy as will insure domestic tranquility at home and a wholesome regard for the rights of our citizen abroad.

NEED OF ECONOMY.

"We have a well-defined foreign policy known of all men who will give it candid consideration. It has as its foundation, peace with independence. We have abstained from joining the League of Nations mainly for the purpose of avoiding political entanglements and committing ourselves to the assumption of the obligations of others, which have been created without our authority and in which we have no direct interest.

"This government is opposed to the discussion in any international body or conference of questions which concern our own purely domestic affairs.

"The prosperity of the people is intimately bound up with the financial policy of the government. To my mind, the practice of public economy and insistence upon its rigid and drastic enforcement is a prime necessity of the people of the United States."

Tax on Receipts at Rallies Is Considered

Washington, Oct. 24. — Internal Revenue officials have received and are considering formal inquiries from collectors of Internal Revenue whether a Federal admissions tax should be levied on political meetings to which an admission is charged.

The question arose in Peoria, Ill., where a deputy collector declared that the 10 per cent. tax on all admissions by the Federal Government should be applied to receipts from a meeting held in behalf of La Follette and Wheeler.

READING'S ASSISTANT TOO BUSY FOR POLITICS

Robert T. Bushnell, first assistant distdict attorney for Middlesex County, who was pressed for a statement following the announcement that District Attorney Reading would not be a candidate for re-election at the expiration of his present term, said that he has not yet made up his mind as to whether or not he will be a candidate for the office.

In a statement issued to the press he said. "At the present time I am too busy with the great amount of work we have on hand to consider an election two years hence."

MAINE GOVERNOR-ELECT HAS VANISHED AGAIN

New York, Oct. 24.—Governor-elect Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, generally credited with having the support of the Klu Klux Klan, is gone again. Now he is either in Virginia, West Virginia or North Carolina. But he is not, as far as is known, on Long Island, where he was scheduled to speak.

His failure to speak was as sudden and unexplained as in the case of Tarrytown and White Plains.

FRANKFURTER IS TO VOTE FOR LA FOLLETTE

Believes That Is Best Manner in Which to Clarify the American Politics

"Because I want a clarification of American politics and a realignment along lines that honestly and deeply divide men, I am for La Follette," said Professor Felix Frankfurter, Byrne professor of administrative law in the Harvard Law School today.

Professor Frankfurter, who has been on the Harvard Law School Faculty since 1914, is the author of several books and has held a number of government positions. He formerly acted as judge advocate in the Officers' Reserve Corps, United States Army, was assistant to the Secretary of War and to the Secretary of Labor, secretary and counsel to the President's mediation commission, and was appointed chairman of the War Labor Policies Board in 1918.

His statement, in part, follows:

"Not until we realize that we cannot have a healthy country unless we make a serious change in our economic and social organizations through a change of mind towards the position of the farmer and the laborer, will the terrible conditions making for increasing unrest in this country properly be grappled with. And neither of the two old parties shows the slightest evidence of a vigorous attack against these social and economic evils.

"The Republican party is frankly content with things as they are, and the only serious complaint that Mr. Davis makes with the condition of the country is that Republicans rather than Democrats are governing it. Only the other day he made the amazing statement that the unrest in this country was due to the scandals of the Harding administration and the lack of confidence to which it led.

"And so I am voting for La Follette for the same reason which, in substance, led people to vote for Fremont in 1856 and for the British Labor Party in 1917. The Third Party movement is really an effort to break up the artificial cohesion of the Republican and Democratic parties which, at present, are, fundamentally, historical survivals due to the 'solid South.'

FINDS COOLIDGE LEADING IN ILLINOIS

Chicago Herald-Examiner Poll Also Gives Him Indiana, Iowa, Missouri

Chicago, Oct. 24 (Universal).—Another week of carefully conducted test ballots by the Chicago Herald and Examiner representatives seem to strengthen the likelihood of a Coolidge victory in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri.

At the same time they promise a Davis triumph in Kentucky and Tennessee.

There have been some fluctuations in the vote during the week, and La Folette has made gains in portions of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa, but in no case have they been such as to promise the Wisconsin fighter a chance to land the electoral vote in any of these States.

The test polls have been conducted personally by Herald and Examiner representatives in each State, all ballots being marked secretly by the voters themselves and deposited in Herald and Examiner ballot boxes.

Everything has been done to safeguard the impartiality of the returns. They have also been gathered on a scale that should make them a most valuable index to the trend of public opinion.

In all 169,187 ballots have been cast and counted in the six States covered by the Herald Examiner.

The results to date indicate the following probabilities for November 4:

ILLINOIS—Coolidge should carry this State by 400,000 over La Follette and by 600,000 over Davis. In Illinois the past week's returns have tallied almost exactly with the percentages set up by the previous weeks.

INDIANA—Coolidge seems likely to carry Indiana by 100,000 votes over Davis and by 140,000 over La Follette.

IOWA—Coolidge should lead La Follette by 175,000 votes and Davis 350,000.

[illegible]SOURI—Coolidge should lead [illegible] 120,000 votes and La Fol[illegible]000.

[illegible]—Davis should lead [illegible]000 and La Follette to [illegible]

TE[illegible] should lead Coolidge [illegible] La Follette by 180,000.

WALL STREET IS CHALLENGED BY LA FOLLETTE

Calls Rumors of Panic if He Is Elected "Terrorism and Bribery"

Detroit, Oct. 24.—As he travelled today toward Syracuse, N. Y., where he is scheduled to deliver an address tonight, Senator Robert M. La Follette, Independent Presidential candidate, declared in a statement that "it is being whispered about by bankers, railroad operators, industrial trusts and the press controlled by them, that should La Follette be elected there will be a panic, that credit will be shortened and that banks will withdraw their support to business."

"This is the same old bluff that has been used at this stage of every campaign in which there has been a real issue," he continued. "In 1912, when Woodrow Wilson was a candidate, the financiers and trust magnates threatened that if he was elected there would be a panic. He was elected, and thre was no panic. Thy have used it in Satte elections. They have even used it in city elections. It is a sure sign of reactionary distress.

ISSUES CHALLENGE.

"I do not question the power of Wall street to produce a panic, but I do challenge their courage to put through the conspiracy which they proclaim with the penitentiary staring them in the face.

"I intend to meet treason, bribery and terrorism as any other crime against the State should be me.

"If I am elected, as I fully expect to be, and this wicked thing is done or attempted to be done, the Department of Jusiee, wih all of its agencies of investigation will be instructed to bring their crime against a free people face to face with summary justice. The punishment shall be swift and sure.

"The Department of Justice will be instructed to indict and to bring to trial any man, no mater how powerful he may be, who has been guilty of an attempt to use his power over the money and credit resources of America, not only to wreck business, but to influence men's votes by intimidation or bribery in any form.

"MUST PAY PRICE."

"No man or group of men can make war on the free sovereignty of the people to satisfy his private greed. No man, or group of men, shall destroy the wealth of others without paying the price for such destruction. And no bank shall be trusted by this government of ours that has shown itself unworthy of such trust."

La Follette Draws From Both Parties in South

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 22.—In the Presidential poll of the States of the Central South, as assembled by the Atlanta Georgian, the interesting and perhaps significant thing is the approximately equal number of former Republicans and former Democrats who now announce their purpose to vote for La Follette.

Comparing figures with those of a week ago, La Follette is nearer Davis than he was then, and Coolidge is proportionately farther in the rear of La Follette.

DAVIS DENOUNCES KLAN AS UNAMERICAN

Cleveland Oct. 24 (Universal).—In Convention Hall, which but a few weeks ago rang with applause as Calvin Coolidge received the Republican nomination, John W. Davis made a vivid plea for the return to power of the Democratic party in an address before 12,000 persons tonight.

Davis denounced the participation of secret societies in politics when a heckler interrupted him to ask how he stood on the Klan.

Girls! Here's How to Get 'Venus' Figure

Louise Fazenda, making a sea picture. As the lighthouse keeper's daughter, battles the wild sea waves. But battling the waves is a cinch, says Louise, when compared to battling excess avoirdupois that persists in trying to creep upon one. So Louise went about perfecting a system to keep her figure sylphlike—without, however, sacrificing her three "squares" daily. She found it—and it proved so much of a success that Louise has adopted it as a part of her daily routine. The system is nothing more than exercise—and Louise swears by it as the best guarantor of health, appetite and waistline that she has yet experienced.

Fifteen minutes of strenuous work every morning will make pineapple and lamb chop diets unnecessary, declares Louise. And a gymnasium also is a non-essential. Bending exercises, floor work, breathing exercises and a series of "setting-up" rules, to be followed systematically, will keep any one "fit" and healthy.

1—Keep regular hours.

2—Eat in moderation.

3—Do not eat ice cream, candies and similar "goodies." I know this is a hard one, girls, but one piece of candy means a day lost in the quest for slimness.

EXERCISE DOES IT!

Any girl can have a figure like this, says Louise Fagenda, the movie star, if she will follow these ten rules faithfully.

4—Drink plenty of water.

5—Do not starve yourself. Diet so far as keeping away from certain rich and fattening foods is concerned, but don't ruin your health by a continual abstinence from foods necessary for the welfare of the body.

6—Walk more. In this day of the motor car we almost lose the use of our pedal extremities. A mile or two a day will keep the doctor away.

7—Get plenty of sleep. Regular habits are an all-important health factor.

8—Don't eat between meals. That "bite" taken just before lunch, or in mid-afternoon, has a tendency to pile up excess flesh at an alarming rate.

9—Take breathing exercises. Keep the lungs full of fresh air.

10—And, most important, EXERCISE! Bending, rolling, floor exercises, etc. Keep at it religiously. Twenty minutes each day is sufficient if you stick to it.

Suffocates Under Water

Potsdam, N. Y., Oct. 2'—Clogging of the air hose of his diving outfit caused the death by suffocation of Bert Woodward, a bell diver, the autopsy disclosed. It was supposed the diver had drowned, but no water was found in his lungs.

MOTRONI FUND IS NEARLY $10,000

A total of nearly $10,000 has been donated to Mrs. Albert Motroni, wife of the East Boston policeman slain nearly two months ago in a cellar battle with an auto thief, it was announced today by Police Commissioner Wilson.

Collections among fellow policemen in the various divisions brought a fund of $2,247.70, and from miscellaneous sources, an additional $149 was received by the police.

The City of Boston, according to its usual procedure, has donated $2,500, the Police Relief Association $1,000, and the Boston Telegram public subscription fund slightly more than $4,000 to date.

To further swell the fund to provide for Mrs. Motroni and her child, a meeting of the Defenders of Public Safety is planned next month. It is expected that they will follow their usual practice and appropriate a substantial contribution.

DEATH TAKES HEAVY TOLL OF PILGRIMS TO MECCA

Batavia, Dutch East Indies, Oct. 24 (A.P.)—Of 50,000 Dutch Indian Mohammedans who made the pilgrimage to Mecca this year, about 5,000 have died on the way back from disease and exhaustion consequent upon the hardships of travel in visiting the holy places of Islam. Moslems believe that by these visits they will gain sanctity here and paradise hereafter.

The death rate of this year's pilgrimage has been higher than usual, and is attributed to so many of the pilgrims being aged and infirm.

STATE AUTHORITIES TO AUCTION ALCOHOL

The Massachusetts courts have come out victorious in a clash with Federal authorities over the control of 25 barrels of denatured alcohol, seized as a part of the stock of the National Pharmaceutical Company.

As a result of Washington having decided in favor of the State authorities, the alcohol will be sold at auction next Monday at the Columbus avenue storage warehouse.

CATHOLIC ALUMNAE WARNED FOR ELECTION

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.—Members at the annual meeting of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae were urged to vote for candidates and legislative measures strictly on merit by Mrs. A. H. Meyers, governor of the Kentucky chapter. "Don't support candidates on religious grounds alone," Mrs. Meyers said. "Rather be sure they are honest and capable. Don't vote without examining the records of candidates. Give special attention to measures affection morals, peace and property rights." WOMAN WANTS NEIGHBOR TO REPLACE SON

Former Blames Latter for Death Through Playmate's Whooping Cough

New York, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Pauline Neil, No. 450 W. 57th street, believes firmly in the old principle of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth—and a child for a child.

Some months ago she became friendly with Mrs. Joan Boullot, No. 142 W. 62d street, and the two families saw much of each other. Then Mrs. Boullot's three-year-old boy, Rene, became ill of whooping cough, and Mrs. Neil's son caught the disease, later dying.

A week ago the two women met in Central Park and Mrs. Boullot tried to sympathize with the other woman for her loss. She was amazed when Mrs. Neil replied:

"I don't want your sympathy, but I do want one of your children. My child died because yours was ill and you must replace him."

Mrs. Neil was so persistent, according to Mrs. Boullot, that the latter sought a summons in West Side Court. Magistrate Smith refused to grant it.

BROKEN 'GATE VALVE' CAUSED 'L' TIEUP

Preliminary Report on Accident Turned in by Inspector Conducting Investigation

The dropping off of the foot of an eight-inch gate valve used in regulating the flow of water into the boilers at the South Boston power house of the "L" road caused the big tieup of last Tuesday morning, according to the preliminary report of Inspector L. H. McLain, made to Chief Inspector H. W. Seward.

McLain's report stated that two systems to heat the water going into the boilers are maintained by the "L."

Two eight-inch pipes coming from the city water mains are in the Elevated's boiler room, and these bring the water to the feed pipes. The feed pumps drive water into the heater against steam pressure. From the heaters this water goes into the boiler supply pipe, against steam pressure of 250 pounds in the boiler. In the supply pipe are various gate valves, which admit or shut off the water.

Thus far the investigation shows that the foot of one of these gate valves dropped off and automatically closed the pipe, stopping the flow of water to the boilers.

SEAPLANE TO CARRY FEVER VICTIMS TO AID

London, Oct. 24.—A seaplane, specially designed to carry white men who fall ill with fever on the plantations to the nearest place where they can obtain treatment, has been built for service in British Guiana. Hitherto, when men became ill, it required nearly seventeen days to cover the 200 miles by river. The plane will be summoned by wireless.

MYSTERY FIRE IS PROBED BY AUTHORITIES

Man Loses Life As Sudbury Street Building Burns

Boston police and fire department officials today are investigating the origin of a fire which damaged the old American House building at Nos. 50-52 Sudbury street and caused the death of a tenant of the building.

The man who lost his life was Bernard H. Kosak of No. 12 Andrews street, president of Grant, Walkins & Co., Inc., manufacturers of perfumes. Kosak was overcome by smoke while endeavoring to rescue papers in his office and was found unconscious by firemen. He died of a heart attack at the Haymarket Relief Hospital a short time later.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

The building, half a century ago was part of the old American House. The fire started behind some closets in the quarters of Coffin & Co., steam and gaspipe fitters on the first floor. Smoke filled the entire building.

It had been believed that every one was safely out of the structure until Kosak was found unconscious in his office.

FAMOUS IN OLD DAYS.

Considerable apprehension was felt for the building, one of the old landmarks of that section. It is owned at present by the American House owners; but for years had not been used in connection with the hotel.

2 PENNSYLVANIA CONVICTS SHOOT GUARD AND ESCAPE

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 2[illegible].—Clarke Herman and Edmond Cote, convicts from the Eastern Penitentiary Philadelphia, who were transferred to the Lancaster County Prison last November, escaped tonight after shooting and seriously wounding James Messenkop, a guard, who went into their cell to stop a fight.

Boy Steals Five Autos, Abandons Four, in Two Days

Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 24.—Following his auto theft operations of the past two days, during which he stole five automobiles, Henry Chadwick, nineteen years old, of Keene, N. H., was captured here by Chief of Police O'Keefe just as Chadwick was returning from Greenfield, Mass., where he had taken two local girls on a joy ride. Chadwick stole three automobiles in Keene in twenty-four hours. He drove the third car, which belonged to Charles W. Gray of West Swanzey, to Bratleboro, where he abandoned it in favor of a better machine owned by Harold Torrey of West Brattleboro.

He then drove Torrey's car to Keene, abandoning it there late last night, and this morning he stole an automobile belonging to the Keene District Nurses' Association.

ONE MAN DYING, 2 INJURED, IN CRASH

Three men are at the City Hospital, one of them dying, from injuries received while they were riding, the police say, in a stolen car, which collided with a milk wagon in front of No. 670 Dorchester avenue, South Boston.

The injured men are:

James C. Noonan, 23 years old, of No. 671 East Broadway, South Boston.

James Mowrie, 27 years old, of No. 32 Dorchester street, South Boston.

Stanton whose name is on the danger list at the City Hospital, suffers possible internal injuries and cuts about the head and face. The other two men were less seriously injured and suffered painful cuts about the head and body.

The machine in which they were riding was borrowed, the police claim, while parked in front of the Edison Plant on Dorchester avenue, by four men. The fourth man escaped after the crash. The driver of the milk wagon, Gilbert M. McCullough, of No. 20 Eastman street, Dorchester, while thrown to the street, escaped injury.

Police say that the three victims may be charged with stealing the wrecked automobile.

5 BOSTON MEN HURT IN WEBSTER ACCIDENT

Webster, Oct. 24.—Five men motoring to investigate an automobile accident which occurred two years ago were injured when the machine in which they were riding was overturned at East Main and Whitcomb streets.

The injured are Harris Goodwin of No. 84 State street, Boston, severe cuts and abrasions on the head and body; Allen Robinson of No. 3 Carlisle street, Roxbury, cuts on the head and arms; Abraham Brown of State street, Boston; Hugh MacKelvie of No. 274 Holbrook road, Atlantic, and James Rumsey of No. 198 Greer street, Cambridge.

POLICE PROBE 'BLACK HAND' BOMBING

New Bedford Youth Was Warned to Leave Town in Mysterious Note

New Bedford, Oct. 24.—Police were today investigating the mysterious dynamiting of the room occupied by Rudolph Deschamps until a week ago on the farm of Fred Wallace.

A "Black Hand" letter warning him to leave Swansea or be killed was said to have been received by Deschamps.

Deschamps, seventeen, the son of Gilbert Deschamps of No. 516 North Front street, this city, denies he has any enemies.

Warning letters were said to have been received by young Deschamps September 23. Mrs. Wallace is also said to have received notice that the youth must leave Swansea.

The explosion tore away the window of the room, wrecked the furniture within, and sent fragments from the wall through the opposite door.

AMERICAN WAR FILMS BURNED IN LONDON

London, Oct. 24 (Universal Cable)—Many valuable American negatives, including war film records, were destroyed in a big fire on Wardour street.

The premises of the Ideal Films and Topical Budgets were destroyed. Experts compute the loss at $4,000,000.

BIG MAJORITY FOR DRYS IN ONTARIO

Farm Vote Offsets Ballots of Wets in Cities of the Provinces

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 24 (I.N.S.)—By a majority expected to total more than 30,000, Ontario today indicated it has sustained its temperance act in the election yesterday.

An early analysis of the heated battle shows that it was a fight of the cities against the great farming and village populations. Urban Ontario voted heavily for control.

Ontario stands a vast dry wedge between provinces that are wet. Whether the drys will consider the victory impressive enough to pursue the campaign, with the intention of bringing back other provinces which have returned to the wet ranks, was not stated.

Wet votes had been won by the prospect of American tourists attracted by liquor sales and by the argument that liquor taxes would help reduce the province's prospective $8,000,000 deficit.

The women's vote gave the drys a majority. Border areas rolled up their usual large majority for the wets.

GERMAN GETS OPERA ON ONE PHONOGRAPH RECORD

Berlin, Oct. 24. (A.P.) — Twelve-inch phonograph records that play for 100 minutes and reproduce whole operas by aid of radio-loudspeakers without the noise of needle-scratching, have been produced by Dr. Max Hausdorff of this city, working along lines evolved by an English inventor. The production costs of the new record will be much lower than for the five minute-records, it is alleged.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

W.C.T.U. PARADE ROUTE TO BE AS SCHEDULED

Five Thousand to Be in Line on Tremont and Boylston Streets

The hosts of the Women's Christian Temperance Union are to hold their convention parade tomorrow afternoon and they are to march through Tremont and Boylston streets.

The opposition of the retail division of the Boston Chamber of Commerce to the parade on the ground that it would interfere with business was withdrawn at the last moment and the permit for the parade was issued by the Board of Highway Commissioners.

The Chamber of Commerce men who sought to have the parade pass over Arlington and Beacon streets, so as not to interfere with Saturday afternoon shoppers, were under the impression that approximately 14,000 marchers would be in line and that the parade would require several hours to pass a given point.

When informed that there would not be more than 5,000 women in line and that the parade would be off the streets in half an hour, the objections were withdrawn.

The women themselves refused to sanction the changing of the route of parade. They have been in session in Boston this week at the annual State gathering of the organization.

The parade is planned as a measure for arousing sentiment in favor of State enforcement law to be voted on by the freeholders of Massachusetts a week from next Tuesday.

LABORITE CANDIDATE BEATEN WITH LEAD PIPE

London, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The worst of the series of rowdy disturbances which have marked the British election campaign occurred at Greenock where the Laborite candidate, Councillor Stephen Kelly, while holding a street meeting, was attacked by a gang of roughs, kicked, struck on the head with a lead pipe and knocked unconscious. A fierce fight followed between Kelly's adherents and his attackers, who were apparently supporters of his rival candidate, a Communist. The police rescued Kelly, who was seriously hurt. His speaking engagements have been cancelled.

B. U. GIRL REPORTERS PLAN A NIGHT OFF

RUTH YEOMAN

MERCEDES R. BAKER (at top). DORA GINSBERG

If you must do something desperate, do it Friday evening—the world will never know it.

Perhaps you long to get your hands on the man who always knows what you are about to say. Or, probably you harbor a secret desire to make it forever impossible for that maiden aunt of yours to send you yellow neckties for Christmas. Or worse still, possibly you are slowly being consumed by the desire to—well, whatever it is, go to it.

As was said before, the world will never know it. That is to say, as far as the reporters of the Boston University Press Club are concerned, it will not. For on this night these seekers of news will turn a deaf ear to all scandal and reserve both eyes for only one figure.

In a word, they are to resist the lure of the pen for the lure of the dance, and both the resisting and the tempting will take place at the Tent on Huntington avenue to the music of Morey Pearl and his orchestra.

And, because these optimistic, unsophisticated novices in the art of news writing believe that unless they are to report it, the world cannot commit a crime, they have taken pity on the poor public and will permit it to attend their affair.

Among those responsible for many a sheik seeking admittance to the Tent are Miss Ruth Yeoman of Revere, Miss Mercedes [illegible] of Brookline, and Miss Dora Ginsberg of Roxbury, all students of Boston University.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Jad Salts

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

CONFIDENCE IS GARY KEYNOTE ON BUSINESS

Steel Chairman Says Underwriters Won't Get Our Ship of State

New York, Oct. 24.—Business conditions in this country during the next year and during the next four years depend largely upon the result of the election on November 4, E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, declared in his presidential address to the American Iron and Steel Institute today.

"Every well-informed business man or woman," Mr. Gary told the steel manufacturers, "knows that if the best men are elected there probably will be continued and increasing prosperity, and that if others less capable and less worthy are elected we may expect depression and disturbances in business, less production, more idleness, less comfort, more distress; a decided interruption to legitimate progress that will not be easily nor soon overcome."

"PUBLIC IS RIGHT."

Mr. Gary said he was convinced the public had been right during the last few months in believing the election returns would be satisfactory, as shown by the steady and persistent increases in the volume of business. With such a result, he added the country could look forward through the Autumn and succeeding months with hope and confidence.

"Our ship of state is too great, too fine, too solid, substantial and strong," he declared, "to be pronounced unseaworthy on the words of unscrupulous, unintelligent or inexperienced men, and then turned over to a board of underwriters."

Outlining qualifications which he believed a President of the United States should possess, Mr. Gary said "he should be willing to lend his influence and devote his talents to legitimate business progress and general prosperity, and likewise to prevent and penalize corruption and wrong. He should endeavor to assist and to protect the poor, the weak and the suffering, and at the same time should be willing to help the rich, the strong and the happy when it is indisputably right to do so."

BUSINESS GROWTH.

Business throughout the United States has shown a persistent, though somewhat irregular, growth since last May, with the volume expanding each succeeding month, said the steel magnate.

"The subsidiary companies of the corporation, which possess something less than one-half the capacity of all manufacturers in the United States, so'd about 2,000 tons per day more of steel in June than in May; about 6,000 more tons per day in July than in June; about 10,000 tons per day more in August than in July; about 6,000 tons per day more in September than in August, and about 5,000 tons per day more in the first seventeen days of October than in the first seventeen days in September."

Prince of Wales Is Timid Visitor at Hunt Tea; Wonderful Gowns Worn at Ball

MISS ELLA SNELLING

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodman P. Snelling, who danced many times with the Prince of Wales.

By BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY was waiting for Edward, Prince of Wales, to make his appearance at the tea given in his honor by the Bayard Tuckermans at "Savin Hill Farm," their Hamilton place.

Not waiting ostentatiously, of course.

In fact, it might have been an ordinary after-the-drag tea. Only it was much larger. In addition to the men and women who had finished the colorful Myopia run with the Prince just before the tea and were still clad in riding togs, a stream of other neighbors of the Tuckermans poured into the drawing room of the large brick house on Savin Hill.

While His Royal Highness was changing from riding clothes into afternoon dress, the guests assembled below chatted about the perfect weather, the run and, of course, the Prince.

BUT informally was distinctly the order of the day.

Those who were not clad in riding togs wore sport attire. Tweed suits, long sport coats, simple tailored chapeaux made up milady's costume for the occasion.

As for special decorations throughout the house—there were The Prince was to meet the North Shore folk and see a North Shore home just "as is."

So, as I say, the guests were waiting for His Royal Highness to descend the stairs.

And when, after a short time he did, they saw a slim blond chap wearing a brown plaid suit, blue shirt, crimson tie with a silk handkerchief of the same hue peeping from his breast pocket.

The heir to the British throne walked through the large entrance hall to the drawing room.

They chatted together a few minutes, and then the scarlet-coated master of "Savin Farm" stood beside his royal visitor.

There was no receiving line. Now and then Mr. Tuckerman would most informally present one of his guests, the men simply shaking hands and saying a few words. Some of the women folks curtsied as they met the Prince, while others did not.

After a few minutes Mr. Tuckerman escorted his distinguished guest to the dining room. Here the Prince manoeuvred his teacup with right royal skill as his host presented several more of his guests.

It seemed just a few minutes before His Royal Highness again walked through the hall and entered a small room leading off part way up the stairs.

And that, as far as this party was concerned, was the last of the Prince of Wales.

VERY handsome indeed did Miss Ella Snelling look in her gown of shell pink chiffon. There were ostrich feathers of a deeper shade of pink on the skirt, and a slender silver ribbon about the waist.

Miss Snelling—she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodman P. Snelling—got along famously with her royal partner. They tried quite the latest terpsichorean intricacies, chatting and laughing together like old friends all the while.

Another most attractive partner of the Prince was Mrs. John Mitchell, the former Elizabeth Caswell, better known as "Sister" to her intimates.

As exquisite as ever did this slender young matron look in her gown of champagne velvet fashioned in the straight line mode so much in vogue just now. The one-time "Sister" Caswell's lovely golden hair was coiled in the most becoming fashion, and tiny pearl drops showed beneath each ear.

DASHING Mrs. Clarence L. Hay was the royal visitor's partner for several dances. The former Miss Appleton's severely simple frock of white chiffon set off most effectively her coal black hair, which she wears in the "shingle" bobbed style. Mrs. Hay was present at the luncheon which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Appleton, gave or the Prince at their Ipswich country home.

One of the first to dance with the slim young heir to the British throne was Mrs. John S. Lawrence, the hostess. She wore gray velvet; banned with fur of the same color, and carried a huge pink fan.

Naturally the Prince danced with Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, his hostess at the tea given in the afternoon at "Savin Hill Farm." The former Phyllis Sears were for the occasion a frock of orchid chiffon.

GRANDGENT TO HEAD ALUMNI OF HARVARD

Professor First Member of Faculty Since 1913 to Hold the Office

Dr. Charles Hall Grandgent of Cambridge, graduate of Harvard College in 1883, and Professor of Romance Languages at the University since 1896, has been chosen president of the Harvard Alumni Association to succeed Supreme Court Justice Edward Terry Sanford, '85, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Washington.

His election took place at the annual October meeting of the directors of the association, who selected as vice-presidents: Arthur Woods, '92 of New York city, former Police Commissioner of New York, and colonel in the Aviation Section during the World War, and N. Horton Batchelder, '01, of Windsor, Conn., headmaster of the Loomis Institute there, and former president of the Headmaster's Club of Connecticut, and the New England Federation of Harvard Clubs.

Loverett Saltonstall, '14, of Boston, of the State House of Representatives and formerly district attorney of the Northern district of Massachusetts, was re-elected treasurer, and J. W. D. Seymour, '17, of Cambridge, was re-elected secretary.

Four new members were elected to serve on the committee to nominate overseers of Harvard College and directors of the association, and Henry L. Shattuck, '01, of Boston, chairman of the Ways and Means committee in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, was elected chairman of this nominating committee. The new members are: Mitchell D. Follansbee, '92, of Chicago; Evan Hollister, '87, of Buffalo; George F. Baker, Jr., '99, of New York, and Roger Ernst, '03, of Boston.

Professor Grandgent is the first president of the association to be chosen from the Harvard faculty since the election of Dean LeBaron R. Briggs to that office in 1913. Among other members of the faculty who served as president may be named President Emeritus Charles V. Eliot, Professor Charles Eliot orton, and Professor John C. Gray the Law school.

UMULTY EXONERATED OF RELIGIOUS PREJUDICE

Washington, Oct. 24.—In connec- with his exchange of state- ents with Governor Walker of orgia, resulting from alleged harges by the Governor before a Ku Klux Klan gathering that Joseph P. Tumulty, as secretary to former President Wilson, had sought to use his office in the interest of the Catholic church, Mr. Tumulty made public here a letter written by Mr. Wilson from the White House under date of January 19, 1914. The letter, Mr. Tumulty said, was in reply to a communication charging that his secretary was withholding part of the President's correspondence from him "on account of religious predilections."

"I beg leave to assure you," the President said, "that the impression that any part of my correspondence is withheld from me in any circumstances by my secretary on account of religious predilections on his part is absurdly and utterly false."

WEST NEWTON AROUSED BY DOG TORTURE

Suspect to Be Tried Tomorrow; Canine Victim Near Death

Deep gloom pervades the atmosphere in the household of William Gammons of No. 125 Webster street, West Newton.

"Pete," valuable pedigreed Chesapeake Bay retriever, pet of the entire neighborhood, is in hourly agony—and there can be no gay moments for members of the family while his plaintive whines resound in the Gammons home.

"Pete," son of "Roger," blue-ribbon winner, was one of several canine victims of a fiend in human form who delighted in torturing the animals with fire.

Joseph Gentile of Oak avenue, West Newton, a neighbor of the Gammons and night watchman in Stewart's barn, Pearl and Green streets, Newton, now faces the charge of having burned in this manner the Gammons dog and a collie owned by Joseph Capello, another neighbor.

Whether or not Gentile is the guilty person will be determined by Judge William F. Bacon in Newton Court tomorrow morning. Today, Judge Bacon will visit Stewart's barnyard, the alleged scene of the crime, to make a personal investigation for the purpose of checking up on the testimony of witnesses at the hearing Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the members of the Gammons family are concerned chiefly with the condition of their loved pet. No expense has been spared in attempts to save the dog's life.

Mrs. Anna Gammon, attractive mistress of "Pete," was outspoken in her denunciation of the person responsible for the torturing and maiming her dog.

"It is a most unheard of outrage," she said. "The guilty party should be punished to the fullest extent of the law. A person capable of making a dumb animal suffer in such a fiendish manner would not stop at treating human beings in the same way.

PRETTY NURSES TO MAKE ETHER MORE EASY

On Woman Patients, Doctor Plan for "Sheiks" to Administer It

New York, Oct. 24.—Snip, slash, cut. A white-capped man with a pair of scissors stands over your prostate form and takes away part of your anatomy.

You know something unpleasant is going on, but you feel no actual pain. Pull, stick, push—a vague sensation that you aren't your old self.

"And how is your golf these days? Playing around ninety? Not so bad," says a pretty little nurse at your head, while the rubber-gloved man does his work.

Then you tell her about your golf and your wife and the kids. Before you know it, that queer feeling is forgotten and you're reasonably happy.

"PSYCHIC ANAESTHETIC."

The nurse is giving you a demonstration of the latest thing in the science of anaesthetics. She is a "psychic anaesthetist" and she abounds in modern hospitals. Her function is to take your mind off what's happening to you; and many times she thus makes a local anaesthetic all that's necessary for a grave operation.

The meeting of the Eastern Society of Anaesthetists in session here brought to light the general use in hospitals of that very young person. Dr. F. H. McMeehan of Aven Lake, Ohio, general secretary of the National organization of which the Eastern Society is a part, explained her position.

"The use of local anaesthetics is very much in vogue," he said. "Many surgeons insist that it is better for the patient not to lose consciousness, if possible, if the operation can be performed without it.

"But the patient recognizes what is going on and that sometimes creates a condition not for his interests. If his mind can be diverted, all is well.

"BALANCE THE SEXES."

"The plan has been carefully thought out. The sexes are balanced, so to speak. That is, a man with a pleasing personality who ests, and talk engagingly about them is made psychic anaesthetist for a woman patient. And a nurse who knows anaesthetics and psychology, who is young and good looking, is engaged for a man patient.

"For children, jingles are sung, games discussed, and toys exhibited. Of course, the psychologist is an anaesthetist working in the hospital."

The development of the science of anaesthetics during the past five years has been more rapid than during the other seventy-five of its existence, according to Dr. McMechan, and its future depends on what is done in chemistry.

"There is no telling what wonderful discoveries will soon be made," he said. "The entire tendency in anaesthetics is toward the use of gases and drugs that leave no ill effects on the human system.

"The new general anaesthetics are derived from petroleum and include acetylene, ethylene, and nitrous oxide. They pass in and out of the body as freely and harmlessly as oxygen. They bring unconsciousness without the least injury. These gases have practically supplanted chloroform, which attacks the liver, and ether, which injures the lungs and kidneys.

WIFE IS BARRED AS RUM TRIAL WITNESS

Government Keeps Spouse of Coast Guard Officer Off Witness Stand

Invoking the Deral statute, Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Carroll prevened Mrs. Eva Burnham, wife of Henry F. Burnham, keeper of the Newburyport Coast Guard Station, from testifying in defence of her husband on trial in Federal Court as one of the defendants in the Salisbury Beach liquor conspiracy cases.

Mrs. Burnham and Mrs. Leonora Kendall of Worcester, the coast guardsman's sister-in-law, were sworn as witnesses before Mr. Carroll objected to the wife's presence on the stand.

Mrs. Kendall testified that Burnham was in Worcester during Christmas week of 1923, when, the government alleges, the defendant was engaged with others in the furtherance of the conspiracy to land liquor under protection in the vicinity of Salisbury Beach.

IN OWN DEFENSE.

Burnham, one of the several defendants who have pleaded not guilty, was the first witness in his own defence. He denied having anything to do with the conspiracy, but admitted having conversed with Albert H. Reynolds, a Newburyport clothier, when there was "casual" talk of protection.

Burnham denied discussion with Chief of Police Congdon of Salisbury, another of the conspiracy defendants.

Summoned to the stand as a witness for Burnham, J. Walter Bowen, a Prohibition agent, said he was in company with Burnham part of every day from June 26 to June 30. The government alleges that Burnham was active as a conspirator on the latter date.

Burnham, it was testified, was on leave from his duties and was assisting Bowen and other Prohibition agents in locating strategic "watching spots" from which to observe possible landing of liquor smugglers at Salisbury Beach and environs.

Questioned as to his whereabouts on a certain night, Witness Bowen replied that he and Burnham spent the night "in a cemetery."

It was on June 30, the government alleges, Burnham is supposed to have received a sum of money in connection with the business of the alleged conspirators.

Carl Voss, a Gloucester fisherman, and one of the gang's alleged marine transportation agents, offered defence testimony relative to three checks endorsed by him and introduced by the government in its attempt to connect Voss as a member of the gang.

TELLS ABOUT CHECK.

CHICKIE APRON FOILS PAWS OF PUPPY

Boston American Reader Finds New Utility for Tea Garment

One reader of the Boston American has found new utility in the Chickie Tea Apron—one that even the designer had not thought of.

"When I'm preparing a meal, the puppy, smelling the meat, jumps all over me in his eagerness to get some," this woman declared.

"His paws are not always as clean as they might be and I'm forever having the soiled spots cleaned.

"But now, it doesn't matter. Your new apron covers my dresses and I haven't had a spot since I got the apron."

That's a good advantage, at that.

To make it easier for Boston American readers to secure the Chickie Tea Apron, the following district depots have been opened:

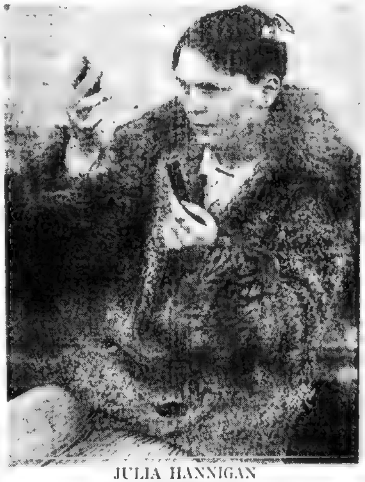
"PINEAPPLE BOB" NOT PLEASING TO GIRL



JULIA HANNIGAN

(International Newsreel)

Here is a "close up" of Julia Hannigan, Brooklyn's flapper runaway, giving herself a "close up." Julia is apparently not quite satisfied with her appearance since she had her hair cropped "pineapple" style. She is now back to feminine normalcy after an adventurous few days away from home during which she donned her brother's wearing apparel, got a job as a caddie, roomed at a Y. M. C. A., learned to "inhale" cigarette smoke and gained enough experience to convince her that "being a boy" is nothing about which to radiocast.

TRUTH DRUG NOT TO BE USED AT SING SING

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 24—Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison denied an announcement attributed to Dr. Carleton Simon, deputy police commissioner of New York City, that scopolamin, or "truth serum," would be tested on Sing Sing prisoners.

U. S. PLANS TEN DIRIGIBLES FOR PACIFIC

Two Larger Than ZR-3 Contemplated for Building Program of 1927

By FRANCIS J. TIFTSORT.

(Copyright, 1924, By Universal Service)

Washington, Oct. 24.—America is to have [illegible] more and much greater rigid [illegible]bles for the dual air service [illegible] the army and navy when a new [illegible] program for national defense [illegible]ted.

So[illegible] details of the 1927 program [illegible] has the hearty approval of the [illegible] board, the joint air [illegible] of the army and navy were [illegible] here to Universal Service.

The [illegible] rigid dirigibles will be [illegible] military ships and in construction [illegible] show pronounced advance [illegible] the military type Shenandoah [illegible] the commercial type ZR-3.

They [illegible] be from 790 to 825 feet in length [illegible] 125 feet or more in diameter. The estimated cruising speed [illegible] miles an hour.

PACIFIC AIR FLEET.

"Such a ship should be able to transport 100 men and planes for a long [illegible]," said Major-Gen. M. M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service today.

It was declared here today that the navy must eventually have a fleet of ten great rigid airships for service in the Pacific against the hour when the United States may have to defend its sovereignty in the world theatre.

The Naval War College, as well as the army strategists, has already made full campaign plans against that day, and in them it has been disclosed aerial tactics will play a leading role. Japan is, of course, the theoretical enemy.

JAPS SPEED BUILDING

Japan is the second air power of the world it was stated today and dominates the Asiatic half of the Pacific. Japan is operating day and night twenty-one aircraft factories that are turning out five hundred planes a month. Japan has [illegible] great rigid dirigibles under building [illegible] proposals on Zeppelin lines in England.

TODAY'S YOUTH WEAKER THAN PARENTS

Coach Knox of Harvard Says Body Is Neglected for Brain

Neglect of physical education is resulting in a younger generation physically weaker than its parents, according to Scrub Football Coach James L. Knox of Harvard University, who has been training Crimson teams for ten years.

"Formerly a person was considered 'educated' if he had mastered the three R's," says Coach Knox. "Today education has branched into many different subjects [illegible] with this result. The [illegible] of education has been spread over so much breadth that it is exceedingly thin and physical development has been lost sight of.

"Having a boy study under one tutor at 9 o'clock, another at 10, and so on through the day, may produce a mental genius. But of what use is his knowledge if, when he reaches twenty, he is under the doctor's care most of the time?

"Learning obtained from books to be [illegible] must be [illegible] experience in the world [illegible] play [illegible]. More attention should be paid to athletics.

"The younger generation is jazz [illegible], get down to brass tacks again. It must pay [illegible] to bodily [illegible] essential to [illegible] development.

"The [illegible] of parents [illegible] now [illegible] men to have automo[illegible] of the worst influences [illegible] life today."

DR. MAYO SAYS BODY WORTH 98 CENTS

Figures Its Value if Boiled Down for Drug Store Sale

New York, Oct. 24.—Boiled down for sale in a drugstore, the value of a human body would be ninety-eight cents, according to Dr Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minn., president of the American College of Surgeons, in convention here.

"In these days of high prices and over-eating most men cram into their stomachs more in one sitting than they themselves are worth," Dr Mayo declared. "And then they wonder why more than a million persons over forty-five years of age in this country are suffering from diabetes."

And then, with his eyes sparkling under his shaggy gray eyebrows, the doctor told just how much the average man is actually worth.

When boiled down to natural elements the average man would make

Seven bars of soap.

"Iron enough to make an eight penny nail.

"Magnesium enough to relieve one sour stomach

"Potassium enough to explode one toy cap pistol

"Sulphur enough to chase the fleas off one dog.

"Lime enough to whitewash one fair-sized chicken coup.

"Phosphorus enough to cover the tips of 2,500 matches.

"Therefore," Mayo added, "the total drug-store value of a man is just about 98 cents."

HOTEL VENDOME SOLD FOR OVER $1,000,000

Hotel Vendome was sold for the first time since it was opened in 1880, and from which time it has ranked high as a resident hotel. The new owners will conduct the business along the same lines which have made the Vendome known throughout the country as the "home hotel"—staid and conservative.

The property, which stands on the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Dartmouth street, was sold to a company made up of Frank H. Abbott and his son, Karl P. Abbott of Bethlehem, N. H.; Henry E. Richardson president of the Littleton, N. H., National Bank; Frederick S. Snyder of Batchelder & Snyder Company of Boston, and A. E. Ivie of New York city.

The amount was considerably over $1,000,000.

TAXI DRIVER GUILTLESS OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

After deliberating for less than one hour, a jury in the Seventh Criminal Session of the Suffolk Superior Court, returned a verdict of "Not Guilty" in favor of John W. Ferrett, who was charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Ferrett was arrested on the night of August 12, after he had made a short cut across the reservation at the corner of Washington street and Columbus road, Dorchester, which he said he was forced to do to avoid a possible collision

Brookline Parents Protest School Closing Time

HALF HOUR ADDED TO DAY

A storm of protest among the high school students and parents in Brookline has followed in the wake of a change of half an hour in the school closing time.

The school authorities have decided that the high school sessions shall close each day hereafter at 2 p. m. instead of 1:30 as in the past.

The high school opens at 8 a. m. Up until this time there has been one lunch period for the [illegible] school, but with the changes in hours it is planned to divide the 1,200 pupils into two sections, having separate lunch periods.

Many of the students do not eat during the school session, but wait until school is over.

The principal complaint is that by extending the closing time to 2 o'clock the students who do not carry lunches will be distressed by hunger.

Officers of the Parent-Teachers' Association are planning a special meeting of the body to take action on the matter. A number of petitions protesting against the change are also in circulation among the students and parents.

PICKPOCKET GIVEN TERM OF FOUR YEARS

Domenico Russo, who also uses many other names, was sentenced by Judge Bishop of the Suffolk Superior Court to the House of Correction for an aggregate term of four years for picking the pocket of an aged Civil war veteran of $45, for attempting to do the same to another citizen and for being a vagabond.

TIED SELF TO TREE TO END LIFE

Williamsport, Pa., Oct. 24 (I. N.S.)—A well-worn path leading from the old log road to the spot where the body of Henry E. McHenry, Yale graduate and former school teacher, of Ardmore, Pa., was found chained to a tree in the woodlands of Green Mountain, formed the only clue that might indicate the man was the victim of a murderer.

Because the woodlands are little frequented, the path was at first regarded as highly significant and a gruesome theory was formed that McHenry may have been chained by some person who bound him to the tree and then kept a close watch on him while he made frantic efforts to escape.

BELIEVE SUICIDE.

The path yielded no further clew, however, and because of other facts surrounding the finding of the body it is believed a verdict of suicide will be brought in today by Coroner George L. [illegible].

The suicide theory gained ground last night when [illegible] brother of the man, E. H. McHenry, telephoned the authorities that his [illegible] at Ardmore [illegible] believed his brother was [illegible].

The young man [illegible] since he suffered a [illegible] while serving in the navy during the war, he said, and later had been an inmate of the Pennsylvania Hospital for mental and nervous diseases at Philadelphia.

It was pointed out by police that if McHenry had been the victim of a murderer he undoubtedly would have attempted to scratch some message to his relatives, either on paper in his pocket or on the tree. No message was found.

Around the tree was a [illegible] about fifteen feet in [illegible] told the pathetic tale of the hours and perhaps days spent by the unhappy man pacing at the end of his chain around his neck fastened by a strong lock. The rest of the chain was looped about a giant tree.

FLATLEY PICKS HARVARD, YALE, NOTRE DAME, B. C. TO WIN

BIG GREEN ELEVEN IS CONFIDENT

By NICK FLATLEY

THERE'S a world of confidence packed away in the collection of athletes parked in possession of the Bellevue. They will represent Dartmouth at the Stadium tomorrow and they certainly expect to beat Harvard. But the same sort of [illegible] pervades the squad that Bob Fisher has working out at the Stadium. A visit to Green headquarters would convince anybody that Hanover will celebrate a victory tomorrow night. A jaunt to the locker building at Soldiers Field would make a cynic sure that Harvard couldn't be licked.

* * *

SUCH being the feeling in the rival camps the game looms up as good as the frenzied thousands lingering around, waiting, expect it to be. Boston is in the throes of a real football week end. The hotels are crowded, and raucous college yells rise above the clatter of china in the gilded cafe, and everything. The speculators are selling the tickets they are not supposed to have, and carefree youth is recklessly squandering its next month's allowance. No game that we remember caused any more real excitement and keen enthusiasm than this Harvard-Dartmouth affair which will be a real sell-out.

* * *

IT'S the big game in the country today, though there are other games that are just as mighty in the football scheme of things. It's even large enough to crowd the Prince into the background on the Democratic first pages. Nothing could do more than that. While the Indian and the Crimson are having it out, there will be several other collisions of deep and abiding interest to this part of the world. Yale plays Brown at New Haven. Princeton tackles Notre Dame in the Jungle and Boston College takes on an unknown Allegheny at Braves Field.

Knowing very little about it on a exhibit we imagine things will happen provides ground for the Monday [illegible] follows:

Harvard will beat Dartmouth.
Yale will beat Brown.
Notre Dame will beat Princeton.
Boston College will beat Allegheny.

* * *

DARTMOUTH was a top-heavy favorite over Harvard a week ago, but even money is the best any Green supporter will give today. Harvard will be on the long end by morning, we imagine. Our personal friend among the speculators announces that there's plenty of Harvard money in sight, but not so much Dartmouth coin. The birds who lay the odds figure that Yale stand will both discourage Dartmouth and give Harvard plenty of confidence. It may not and should not, but it has been commented on so frequently that the impressionable young minds of the athletes can hardly forget it.

* * *

THE Dartmouth team did a bit of fumbling at New Haven. It had poor kicking too. Its offensive was smart and slashing, except in the one famous instance. But a team to beat the Fisherman this year needs more than a good running game. Good college teams are so evenly matched nowadays in man power and football knowledge that smooth action and smartness almost invariably turn the tide. Harvard, headed for this game, is at least a hundred per cent smoother and more advanced than was the case a year ago when the Green won 16 to 0. Harvard has several backs who will surprise the Hanover defenders by refusing to be knocked down easily. The Crimson has had a very steady development. There has been no halt in the impetus toward real team play.

* * *

THE Cambridge young men are a great deal better [illegible] and both physically [illegible] since a slip. Dartmouth, after a flying start, was sadly shocked and disappointed at Yale. And the effects of that disaster will very likely be apparent tomorrow, especially if the early breaks are against the Green. Harvard, with two really great punters, Gehrke and Hammond, outclasses the foe in a department that has come to be the most important of 'em all. Close games are won by kicking nowadays, nine times out of ten. The Indians will, of course, be sent in to hurry the kickers and to protect the punt catchers, but Holy Cross, with plenty of stuff, couldn't do that little thing.

* * *

THE old dope, though, goes into the river as soon as the whistle starts the conflict. Let victory fall where it will there has to be a great game. For the individuals on both teams have come to the top through a schooling that required plenty of courage and strength. For the gridiron is one place where men are men.

GREEN BOYS HARVARD MUST KEEP BOTH EYES ON

LEONE LABRIOLA THROWS FARMER BAILEY TWICE

Leone Labriola defeated Farmer Bailey in the feature wrestling match at the Grand Opera House. Labriola secured two straight falls, the first in 6 minutes, and the deciding fall in 4 minutes.

Jim Gettrol of South Boston wrestled with Count Nicholas Zarasoff who threw him in 35 minutes using a head chancery.

Jack Albright threw Arthur Davis, 175-pound New England champion, in 24 minutes.

ROSS IS AFTER ROACH FOR HUB TEAM

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 24.—Boston's prospects for being a strong factor in the new six-team professional hockey league improves.

Canadian sporting writers are devoting much space to the enterprise of Art Ross in the way he is doing business at Canadian cities for Charles F. Adams, owner of the Boston pros.

In addition to the bunch of players landed, he has his eye on Mickey Roach, who learned his hockey in Boston and is still popular there.

At Hamilton on Sunday he is to meet Manager Thompson of a Hamilton team regarding Roach, but Thompson is quoted as saying, "We want our entire staff this year, especially Roach."

Rumor says that Galbraith and Hill, whom Ross has signed from the eleventh team, are each to get $2 000 a year to go to Boston.

Sporting experts assert that Ross has now at least six picked Canadian amateurs landed, and that he has good prospects of getting more.

GIRL TO SWIM FROM DEER ISLAND TO GRAVES

Eva Morrison of Pictou, N. S., is going to show the public her ability as a long distance cold water swimmer Sunday, when she will attempt to swim from Deer Island Light to Graves Light and, if possible, to continue on until she can walk from the water at Revere Beach.

Miss Mirrison, who is but 19, has already made the swim from Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light after finishing within one mile of the light on her first attempt.

She is the daughter of Chief of Police Morrison of Pictou, N. S., and started her swimming when 12 years of age.

TIGER TACKLES KEY TO NOTRE DAME ATTACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Not upon the Princeton offense, but upon the defense against the swirl and thrust of the Notre Dame assault will depend the score here tomorrow.

If Princeton wins or even loses by a close score, it will be fair notice to Harvard and Yale. If Princeton is swamped, it will mean the coaches have not realized where the key to the defense against Notre Dame lies, or that, in possession of the key, the assignment has turned out to be too much for the Orange and Black personnel.

SEVEN AGAINST TWO.

In the wide Notre Dame runs the four backs are on top of the defensive end almost immediately. The defensive tackle is carried out by the offensive end and tackle. The defensive guard has been found negligible so far, since he has been unable to reach the play, because of the step-shift away outside of his position. The defensive wing back is threatened with the possibility of a running forward pass and is therefore slow to come up.

Here comes the joker—the offensive guard on the same side as the play. He takes anybody who happens to be loose.

Here, then, are seven fast-moving men, protected in their start by deception, flung against two men of the first line of defense, and one man (if he comes up) of the second line. If the loose center or the close-up defensive back, or both, come over, the guard is ready for them, and usually has the end to help him, or the tackle, since they are finished with the defensive tackle.

The play is a terror. The defensive guard is of little help, incidentally, since if he slides out to support his besieged tackle, the play is easily turned in over his position for short, sharp gains, enough to punch out first downs.

This play wreaked ruin with the Army tackles, and the ends were left to face the play single-handed. The wonder is that the score was not greater.

MUST CROSS LINE.

No possible form of waiting defence will check this play. Self-immolation by a smashing end has failed. The real key to the attack is the defensive tackle. Unless the defensive tackle gets a full yard and a half across the scrimmage line with the snap of the ball, the defence has not a Chinese chance.

Somebody will have to take care of the swinging Notre Dame guard, and especially the fleet and strong Weibel, who is the best interfering forward in the country today.

Notre Dame's running attack must be broken up before it reaches the line of scrimmage, if it is to be broken up at all.

Should this attack be checked materially, Notre Dame will undoubtedly swing into action with a few of the fifteen or so forward passes, and if the game settles down to kicking and passing, then Princeton has a bare chance.

The burden of proof is above all on the Tiger tackles. There will be more big-calibre football scouts in the stands at Princeton tomorrow than anywhere else in the country.

TUFTS BABES TO PLAY ST. JOHN'S AT DANVERS

Tufts freshman eleven will face St. John's Prep tomorrow. Coach Westcott's yearlings hope to break the winning streak of the undefeated Danvers team. Coach Westcott announced the lineup as follows: Thompson and Dane, ends; Soule and Hall, tackles; [illegible] and Hatson, guards; Keefe, center; Pasqualino, quarterback; Bowker and Kennedy, halfbacks, and Marshall, fullback.

CAPACITY CROWD TO SEE TUFTS-N. H. ENCOUNTER

A capacity crowd will witness the Tufts-New Hampshire football combat tomorrow at Durham, N. H. All seats have been sold and 12,000 fans are expected.

Tufts continued its preparation with a half-hour scrimmage session against the scrubs. Considerable attention was given to the Brown and Blue forward line, while the backfield members took things easy.

Ohio Racing Dates Set

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Officers of the Ohio State Jockey Club and the Brooklyn Jockey Club announced dates for the Spring running race meetings at their tracks for 1925. The Maple Heights meeting is from May 9 to May 30, inclusive, and the Brooklyn meeting from June 6 to June 20, inclusive.

The Ohio State Derby, date not yet fixed, will be run on a Saturday at the Maple Heights meeting for a $10,000 added-money purse.

H. C. Loses Another

Worcester, Oct. 24.—Coach Cleo O'Donnell had a short scrimmage for the Holy Cross College football players the first since Saturday in preparation for the game with Fordham. The jinx got in his work again by adding to the hospital list John Coleman, who was being tried at guard, sprained his left ankle and had to give up.

Boston American to Score Touchdown on Big Games

Ready, Harvard!
Ready, Dartmouth!
Then let the old whistle blow.

Of course the Boston American is ready for football's great day tomorrow. It will have its usual all-star staff of experts covering the various big games.

Harvard vs. Dartmouth at the Stadium is the outstanding game of the day. A direct wire to the Boston American office will give the vivid details of this contest as they happen. Football extras will carry all of the details and the score before the great crowd has got out of the Stadium.

Then there will be the clash between Boston College and Allegheny at Braves Field, the Yale-Brown game at New Haven, the tussle between Notre Dame and Princeton at Tigertown, the B. U.-West Point contest at West Point and numerous other gridiron games of importance. They will all be "covered" by experts for the Boston American. If you want the news of football's big battles as soon as they happen, get the Boston American Football Extras.

Gridironies --- By THE REFEREE.

There is plenty of weeping around Greater Boston as the football fans seek to get tickets for the Dartmouth-Harvard game. Nothing doing anywhere.

When Lafayette clashes with Washington and Jefferson at the New York Yanks Stadium two coaches nourishing their first campaign without defeat will compete. Herb McCracken at Lafayette and Coach Dave Morrow of W. and J. are the parties interested.

* * *

* * *

* * *

The Pennsylvania Athletic Board is dickering with the Notre Dame authorities for a game at Philadelphia next season, on the condition that the Penn lads come to the new Chicago Municipal Stadium in 1926.

* * *

Lafayette University has chosen the "Leopard" as its symbol and becomes a real 'animal team.'

* * *

Percy Wendell will have a hard fight to win over his former coach, P. D. Haughton, tomorrow, as Williams mingles with the Columbia eleven. It will be a case of pupil vs. master.

* * *

* * *

Dr. C. W. Spears, head coach of the West Virginia eleven which faces Center at the Polo Grounds, will not come to New York until 7 o'clock on Saturday morning, but the college band of 50 pieces and over 300 students will accompany the team.

* * *

Bart Connolly, former Amherst athlete, is all het up at the manner in which his old college is lacking [illegible] push. The Brooklin [illegible] that the old pep is lacking, [illegible] on to say the things will change in a short while.

* * *

Maine will tackle Colby in one of the Maine State title games. Maine is determined to give the Waterville collegians a surprise to cover the sting of defeat suffered by the Colby lads last season.

* * *

Lewiston football folks will turn out in large numbers for the Bates and Bowdoin game on this week's gridiron schedule. Capt Price, recently crippled, is ready for the kick-off.

NEW MAKEUP FOR EAGLES IN NEXT GAME

An entirely new Boston College eleven will meet Allegheny College at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon. The Eagle, severely battered last Saturday, has not yet recovered, which has necessitated the changing of the entire forward lineup.

How this new primary defence will work will be determined when Allegheny has played the first quarter. The game will resemble an opening season one, with most of the men playing positions new to them.

The Miners from the Keystone State are eager to take advantage of this condition and to hand the Eagle the second defeat of the year. Coach Davis' team has lost but two games in the last two years, both to West Virginia. This year they even succeeded in crossing the Mountaineers' goal line.

With such an eleven coming northward, the Eagle can't afford to take chances, and the regular backfield, composed of Darling, McKenney, Ward and Bill Cronin will start behind the improvised line.

NEWTON AND WALTHAM SET FOR ANNUAL CLASH TOMORROW

MEDFORD TAKES ON RINDGE

By FRED C. LANE.

While the Suburban League games are interesting enough it might be well to jog the mind of the scholastic sport follower that Newton and Waltham meet in their annual game at the Garden City tomorrow. This contest has for years been looked upon by rooters of both schools as the big day of their respective football season.

This season, however, both teams are in splendid shape. Newton got off the mark rather slowly but that is customary of Coach Allie Dickerman's clubs. As the season matures, Newton teams have a tendency to increase their speed until the day when the Watch City aggregation is met.

Waltham is not as strong this year as in the past, but this makes little difference to Coach Jack Leary for he always rounds out a team that brings credit to the school and is in top form for this big game.

When the strength of the various teams in the Suburban League was being sounded out there was a tendency on the part of the experts to overlook Newton. They were lacking the Garritys and Staffords on the squad which perhaps accounts for their oversight.

Conditions have changed since the season has got under way. Today all are giving Newton High more consideration. The team has shown rapid improvement. The green material is showing the effects of its careful tutoring and Coach Dickerman feels his club is about the equal of any in Greater Boston.

The outcome of the Everett-Brookline contest will be watched with interest by those closely connected with Suburban League affairs. Since their triumph over Rindge, Everett's stock has taken a boost.

That little pastime between Rindge and Medford is worthy of note. Previous to the return of Bud Edgerly, fullback of Medford, Rindge was considered an easy winner. The appearance of this lad in the Medford backfield changes the color of the situation. There is a possibility that the defeat at the hands of Everett will give the Rindge team the proper fight to win this important game and also the championship.

CAPTAIN OF ST. JOHN'S ELEVEN FACES OPERATION

New York, Oct. 24.—Gloom pervaded St. John's College when it became known that Les Prendergast, captain of the football team, is to be operated on for a badly injured knee. Dr. Fred H. Albee, who last Summer successfully operated on Captain Mid Greenough of the Harvard eleven, will perform the operation on the Brooklyn player.

Prendergast's injury is an old one, made acute by a bad wrench received in the Holy Cross game early this season. Medical opinion is that the one-time Lafayette star will be out for three weeks, if not for the rest of the season.

FIRPO BALKS AT BOTH ROMERO AND GODFREY

New York, Oct. 24.—Luis Firpo has balked at efforts of Tex Rickard to sign him for a match with Quintin Romero, the Chilean heavyweight, or George Godfrey, Philadelphia [illegible] fighter.

Firpo [illegible] he still harbored resentment against Romero for the latter's alleged disparaging remarks last Spring when Luis refused to meet the Chilean in South America.

Woods Kayoes Diamond

Lowell, Oct. 24.—Wee Willie Woods knocked out Al Diamond of New York in one round here.

TAD JONES HAS BAG OF TRICKS FOR YALE IN BIG BATTLES

STARS NOT ALLOWED TO SHINE

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New Haven, [illegible] Rodin [illegible] know whether he had a masterpiece or a gob of mud [illegible] to model the in[illegible] gentleman who was destined [illegible] the rest of his ex[illegible] Tad Jones, [illegible] coach of [illegible] Yale foot[illegible] team, [illegible] have [illegible] in common.

Tad Jones

Tad is [illegible] earnest [illegible] to [illegible] a Yale team [illegible] immediate [illegible] is still a trifle [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible] know [illegible] another champ or [illegible] so that [illegible] the [illegible] early stage of the [illegible]

HOW JONES SIZES UP TEAM.

"I'll tell you all about it; it's this way [illegible] point on we [illegible] nodded [illegible] He saw [illegible] that Yale would have a good season if it won, or else versa, mostly versa.

But he needs must know more, in spite of the fact that a squad of under coaches sat at the same table and listened intently to his every syllable.

Was Yale as far advanced now as it was at a corresponding period last year? No, it seemed not. Why? Well, you see, Yale had several inexperienced youths, namely, Sturhahn and Wortham, guards, and Root, a tackle, who had yet to learn what it was that took all the fun out of fundamentals.

But in spite of the fact that he talked down everything, Jones gave the impression that he was [illegible] or less enamored of his young men, taken in general. The writer [illegible] this idea when, in trying to establish a point, he asked if it wasn't true that Dartmouth outplayed Yale on Saturday last.

"No, it isn't," replied our Mr. Jones, in his take it or leave it way. "We marched fifty yards for our first touchdown, which may give you an idea of how our attack was working. For the defense, Dartmouth twice had the ball on the twenty-yard line with a first down and could not gain. The second time, a forward pass pounded off one man into another's arms and that let them out."

Yes, Jones rather likes the Yale team. Behind the scenes it is said that he expects to bat the Army next week and perform Harvard and Princeton in the big games. I suggested that the big three were even lymphed.

"I don't know. Are they?" he replied, and dropped the subject, if any.

Behind the scenes it is also whispered that Yale has something that has yet to see the light of day. It might be mentioned that you either [illegible] or become vastly unpopular.

The word, in this case, is that Yale is up to its old trick of holding out speed boys until the late minutes of the play. Jones hasn't the backfield [illegible] of 1923, but it seems that he plans to use Bench, Cottle, Allen and Pond to soften up the opposition and then step in with Landis and McGunigle.

ASK TAD. HE KNOWS.

Landley, a baseball man, ran amuck against Dartmouth and he is said to have looked every bit as good as Oberlander, the Green ace. McGunigle did not show. He stuck a careless elbow into a passing bus as his car was leaving the bowl last year and is still regretting the incident exceedingly. But McGunigle is about ready and the good word is that he is the finest ball runner in the Yale squad.

The team, however, is under done in other ways, according to the whispering chorus. Pond is below his 1923 form, so is Eckhart, varsity guard. Cottle, it seems, is not exactly a stayer, although quite a gifted young man as long as he lasts.

Bench is a quarterback by force of circumstances, but more acceptable than Bunnell because the latter lacks big game experience.

The ends and tackle positions are well taken care of by the veterans, Luman and Bingham, and Josh Lovejoy is the best center in the East.

But the rest? They may turn out to be good or gosh-awful.

Ask Tad. He knows.

GOLF TOURNEY WINS PRAISE OF JONES

The National Green Section Golf Tournament recently announced by President W. D. Vanderpool of the U. S. Golf Association is being heartily endorsed by players and clubs in all sections of the United States and Canada.

Bobbie Jones, U. S. amateur champion, in speaking of the tournament and the work of the Green Section, said: "I am in most hearty sympathy with the move, through this tournament, to start an endowment fund for the Green Section of the U. S. G. A. It is only through the organized and scientific experimentation of this body that the great cost of golf courses may be reduced, or the general excellence of courses advanced. Our high playing standards are inevitably dependent upon the training grounds which can be opened to our younger players."

Cyril Walker, U. S. open champion, favored the idea. He said: "No tournament could be held for a better cause. The Green Section is one of the finest organizations for the promotion of good golf courses and greens, and every golfer who does not realize this should look around and see the results already obtained. Every golfer should be glad to support the tournament and the Green Section."

Speaking for the professional golfers, George Sargent, president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, stated that the Green Section had contributed very valuable information on green keeping and should be supported in further experimental work. "This association," President Sargent said, "heartily endorses the National Green Section Tournament scheduled for October 25th."

Announcement has been made at headquarters of the U. S. Golf Association in New York that many of the most prominent golf clubs have already signified their approval of the plan and intention of participating in the tournament. Some of the clubs aranging o take part are:

The Lesson of Epinard

Take Also the Case of Papyrus; They Were Raced Too Soon After the Trying Ocean Voyage

MANY warnings were sounded by American turfmen when it was first announced that Papyrus, said at the time to be the best thoroughbred in Europe, and certainly the greatest in England, was to be shipped to this country for a brief campaign.

Again were the go-slow signals flashed across the water when from France came word that good old Spinach, otherwise Epinard, was to repeat the Englishman's attempt.

Both failed. Wise turfmen knew they would. There is no necessity for scratching below the surface for a reason.

It was just this: Neither horse was thoroughly acclimated. Both trained exceptionally well, Epinard in particular.

But there was just that something lacking. They failed when the pinch came. Wise ones were certain they would.

Turf history presents no more interesting case in international racing than that of Iroquois, winner of an English derby. But his Yankee owner took no chances with the different climates of the two countries.

Iroquois first sunk his sturdy hoofs into English soil exactly three days less than a year before the date of the derby he won in the early eighties.

That he and his owner, Pierre Lorillard, might have been fortunate in that it was a lean year for English three-year-olds does not enter into the question. Iroquois was the first and last American horse to win the classic.

The thoroughbred is a high strung, delicately balanced individual. Trainers can take but few liberties with him with impunity.

Jockey Colen May Live

New York, Oct. 24. At the Homeopathic Hospital in Yonkers last night it was stated that John Colen, the 16 year-old apprentice jockey who was injured in the first race at the Empire City course on Tuesday, was resting quietly. While the boy had not regained consciousness during the day, following an operation for a fractured skull, hope was held out that he might ultimately recover.

Boxing Clubs in Pact to Stop Conflicts and Ban Set-Ups

By JACK CONWAY

BOSTON'S boxing clubs have virtually completed a working agreement by the terms of which they will not conduct shows so as to conflict with each other. They have also agreed not to pay fabulous guarantees to boxers in the future. Ring men will be asked to box for a fair percentage of the receipts. If they refuse to do so, they will be permitted to remain idle or barnstorm through the small towns where they will be fortunate to get board money.

The Armory A. A., Suffolk A. A. and Commercial A. C. have already accepted the tentative terms of the proposed working agreement. The Faneuil A. C. and Arena A. C., Boston's other boxing clubs, are also expected to fall into line as soon as the proposition is explained to them.

Ivey Lewis of the Armory Club, who has been associated with the boxing game for more than thirty years, suggested the plan of a working agreement between the clubs. Under present conditions the clubs are staging one show close to another and bidding against each other for the services of boxers. As a result of this system, the landlords and the boxers are the only ones who are profiting from the boxing [illegible]

Most of the clubs have suffered heavy financial losses and were considering suspending operations when Lewis stated that a working agreement between the different organizations would bring the boxing game in Boston out of the woods, as it were.

The new way of things will give the fans better bouts. With the various clubs working in harmony, the ban will be put on bouts of the set-up variety. Unless a boxer agrees to meet a worthy opponent, he will be barred.

It will no longer be possible for ring stars to play one club against another for if a boxer is set down by one organization for unfair methods, he will also be on the suspended list of the other clubs.

This WINDING Increases Amplification

SAMSON engineers invented wonderful machines which produce the famous Helical Winding. This winding, used only in SAMSON Transformers, increases amplification, eliminates distortion, minimises distributed capacity.

All transformers claim these qualities; but SAMSON Transformers really have them, due to the Helical Winding and superior construction.

Try a pair of SAMSON'S and note the difference. SAMSON Audio Transformers in two ratios—6 to 1 and 3 to 1. Price $5. Radio Frequency in 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000 metre wavelengths. $4.50 each. Push-pull $10 per pair

Radiola Loudspeaker
Type UZ-1325
Now $25.00

No set is better than its Loudspeaker

The one big thing in radio is tone. If you are listening to music, you want the tone so exact that it carries over the very personality of the artist. If you are listening to speech, you want the human voice—not a "radio voice." If you haven't heard a Radiola Loudspeaker, you may not know that this is possible.

Try a Radiola Loudspeaker on your set and you will get the finest tone the set can produce—as clear as on a fine pair of headphones, but thrown out into the room in full volume for the whole family to enjoy.

FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

It is easier to say "no" than "yes" in business. But it is the men who say "yes" oftener than "no" who get farthest along.

Have you a "yes" or a "no" disposition?

• • •

Andrew Carnegie was one of the greatest "yessers" of his day. He laid the foundations for his success at critical times when his associates and everybody else were in the "no" mood. When others were turning down proposals or suggestions, he would buoyantly say "yes"—and then scurry around to borrow the money to pay for his latest acquisition. Carnegie knew how to turn national panics to profitable account. He did it largely by saying "yes."

• • •

Take Woolworth. After he had acquired a few stores, it would have been much easier and more comfortable for him to refuse to shoulder additional responsibilities. But Frank W. Woolworth was a "yes" man. He was always eagerly looking for fresh opportunities to branch out. And he left the Woolworth Building, the highest in the world, as one of his monuments.

• • •

The late J. P. Morgan was a "yes" man. When he was approached with the idea of forming a billion dollar steel corporation, an enterprise of greater magnitude than any ever before conceived, Mr. Morgan did not lazily take the "no" attitude. He did not immediately fall in love with the proposal, but he kept his mind open and receptive. After investigation, he said, "yes." And today the United States Steel Corporation is a two billion-dollar enterprise, the largest in the world, and earning very satisfactory dividends for its enormous number of stockholders. Judge Gary, who all along has been at the helm of the management, has also taken a "yes" attitude rather than the opposite. Hence the growth and development of the organization.

• • •

John D. Rockefeller was one of the keenest "yessers" of his day. When the oil industry became demoralized and others were showing the white feather, John D. sweated to find enough money to say "yes" to operators who wanted to give up the sponge.

• • •

Henry C. Frick likewise laid the foundation for what proved to a $125,000,000 fortune by saying "yes" during the panic of 1873 when his associates in the infant coke industry frantically sought some one to buy them out. Frick did it by convincing the father of our present Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that $10,000 could be safely lent him even though he could not put up adequate security for the loan. Within a few years, Frick's profits were running beyond a million dollars a year.

• • •

Human beings can be divided into two broad classes, first those who simply "wish" for things but do not bestir themselves to turn their wishes into realities, and, second, those who do not hesitate to accept the risk which usually attaches to the making of experiments or striking out in some new direction. The latter have the "yes" temperament. Your "no" man usually is timid. He is afraid to quit his little rut. He prefers to jog along on a modest weekly pay envelope to embarking on a course which might not bring him any pay envelope at all for quite a while.

• • •

Have you noticed that most of our great American enterprises are headed by men of the positive, "yes" type? Not a few organizations, however, have boards of directors who do not give the chief executives enough elbow room. There are American incorporations that would do very much better if their boards of directors were to meet only once a year instead of once a month.

Gordon Selfridge, the American who has built up the most wonderful department store in London, recently said:

"Almost always a board of directors says 'no,' because it is easier to say 'no' than 'yes.' When a board says 'no' it leaves things as they were, and requires no further effort; while if it says 'yes' it is responsible for seeing the new policy is carried out."

• • •

The nub of the whole matter would seem to be that if you want to sleep through life a nobody, the thing to do is always to say "No." But if you want to sweat to become a somebody, you must have the courage very often to say "Yes."

EXPORTERS MORE SCARED THAN HURT

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

"American exporters are more scared than hurt," by competition from Germany in the world markets since the putting into effect of the Dawes plan, declares an official of an American electrical equipment manufacturing concern.

A "straw canvass" of twenty exporters at their convention failed to reveal one line in which German competition is growing stronger or is giving evidence of increasing in intensity in the near future. These exporters who are usually in possession of what their competitors in foreign markets are doing, are generally of the opinion that the Germans have not done much in the way of piling up raw materials or making other definite plans for trade expansion based on the improved econmic condition that is expected to result from the Dawes plan and the German loan.

However, the Americans fear that German competition will be a big factor next year. In many lines during the period of inflation in Germany profits were turned back into plant expansion, even though it was apparent that the expended facilities could not be called into use for some time to come. Plant expansions were made primarily to put the rapidly depreciating currency into something tangible upon which a profit could be realized at some later time when more stable economic conditions would obtain.

In manufactures made of metal particularly it is the impression that Germany has tremendous facilities for production which can be called into activity when conditions warrant.

• • •

Increasing exports from Germany should not be looked upon with disfavor by American exporters of manufactured products, and probably will not have a disadvantageous influence upon American trade in foreign fields, Willis H. Booth, president of the International Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company, New York, declares.

"We must face the fact that if Germany is to pay reparations she must increase her exports over her imports, in fact, over her pre-war exports," Mr. Booth said.

While this will increase American competition the outlook is not unfavorable, he adds, since there is a prospect of increased outlets in existing markets with the development of the markets in Austria, Russia, the Far East and Africa promising to expand rapidly. The task of commercializing Africa, in his opinion, will expand the market for world manufacturers in the next hundred years as did the development of our own West following the Civil War. Because of this there should be plenty of business not only to enable Germany to increase her exports but for other exporting nations as well, he concludes.

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says: "Optimism is growing upon the basis of a widespread feeling that the power of radicalism is waning. Whether this feeling is correct or not, the optimism itself is a constructive business factor."

Country and City Bankers Asked to Advise the Farmers

Dr. B. M. Anderson, Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank, advocates that both country and city bankers help farmers in their investments, advising them how to avoid the pitfalls.

The farmer is using his surplus this year to pay debts, not to buy lands or securities, but there will come a time when he will have paid his debts and will be doing something else with his money, Dr. Anderson points out. "In what should he invest his funds?" asks the Chase bank's economist.

"The country banker," says Dr. Anderson, "supplementing his information by consulting his city correspondent, will be the farmer's best advisor in matters of the kind. The farmer has often been the victim of enthusiastic salesmen of speculative stocks, and the banking fraternity should be alert to guard him against this in the future. Short term Liberty Bonds and local school district warrants, in well-managed districts, are excellent. Both are acceptable as collateral at the country bank in time of financial pressure, since both are very acceptable as collateral when the country banker wishes to borrow from his city correspondent. Every country banker can have a list of good railroad and industrial bonds (of fairly short maturity so as to avoid the risk of wide market fluctuations with changing interest rates), which he can recommend to his customers as suitable for a liquid reserve.

"Local mortgages, however good, do not meet the requirements of liquidity, and while excellent as a source of income for retired farmers, do not constitute a suitable emergency reserve for the active farmer. Savings and time deposits with the county bank constitute a satisfactory reserve for the individual farmer, and also for the community as a whole, if the country banker uses them to buy outside commercial paper, bank acceptances and marketable securities. They should not be tied up unduly in local mortgages."

Further Reduction in Production of Oil During Week

Evidence continues to accumulate that the oil industry is nearing a period of price improvement and more stable conditions generally. From various sources yesterday the financial district was in receipt of advices describing the betterment daily becoming more apparent.

First, the crude production of the country as a whole, falling for several weeks, declined still further during the week ended October 11. According to the American Petroleum Institute, the average daily crude output during that week was 1,971,350 barrels, against 1,984,800 barrels daily in the preceding week.

The large crude oil purchasing companies operating in the mid-continent field were reported to be receiving an increasing number of new inquiries for crude oil from refiners. Their deliveries have increased during the past month, and a man who has just returned from this field reported that the large stocks of crude commonly supposed to be on hand in the mid-continent are mere fiction. The producers are finding it hard to take care of the demand, this man said, and should the supplies in storage be absorbed, it will be difficult to replace this oil for some time.

Higher prices are predicted for various departments of the oil industry. An increase is daily expected in the price of crude in Pennsylvania, to be followed by higher prices in other fields.

In Oklahoma it is said that a premium of 25 cents a barrel is already being offered above the stated price. The fuel oil market is declared to be in position to warrant materially higher prices and from a source close to one of the prominent oil companies it was said that contract prices for this class of oil will be a surprise. There is an actual shortage of fuel oil, he said, and some companies are going to find themselves in trouble in attempting to meet their demands.

President Teague, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, who is on an inspection trip in the mid continent, was quoted as declaring he does not fear any ill effects from new production sources in the near future. He discounts any effect now filed might be as remote. He is optimistic, but advises against any premature drilling campaign.

OILS LEADERS IN RESUMED ADVANCE

The upward movement assumed broader proportions as New York stock trading progressed with the best buying in oils, industrials and specialties. Nash Motors extended its early gain to 3½ points and General Electric to 2.

Fleischmann advanced 2 points to new peak at 78⅞.

Other stocks to sell a point or more above Friday's closing quotations were Baldwin, Famous Players, Central Leather preferred, Mack Trucks, Rutland preferred, Texas & Pacific and New York Air Brake A, the last-named at a new year's high.

One of the interesting features of the railroad group was the demand for the ordinarily inactive Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, which advanced to 2⅞ on rumors of its merger with the Seaboard Air Line.

Boston opened irregular: American Brick 10⅞, up ⅛; Calumet & Hecla 14⅞, up ⅛; Pacific Mills, 73½; Amoskeag 60½, off ½; N. E. Tel 104⅛, off ⅛.

Marlboro will receive bids until October 25 for purchase of $202,500 4½ per cent bonds, dated November 1 and maturing 1925 to 1939 inclusive.

MILLS MAKING SLOW GAINS

R. G. Dun's Weekly Trade Review, in this week's issue, will say regarding trade conditions in Boston:

Though fundamental conditions seem to be improving, business has been somewhat less active during the week. The textile industry is making slow gains, although the wool market is firm and increases in quotations continue, particularly in men's wear lines, which have been marked up several times in the last two months.

Worsted yarns are quiet, with prices unchanged; cotton yarns are moving more freely, though prices are somewhat lower; and the converted cotton goods are displaying considerable activity.

Carpet manufacturers and hosiery mills are getting back to normal operating schedules, and shoe manufacturers continue to report progress. Although both hides and finished leather are advancing in price, business is steady and in moderate volume, and stocks of leather are decreasing.

Building lumber is moving well at steady prices, and hardwoods are more active. Paints are selling in good volume for this season, and dyestuffs and chemicals are in better request than for several weeks.

Paper manufacturers note an improved demand, though most of the orders are for immediate shipment.

PACIFIC DEVELOPMENT STOCK OFF BIG BOARD

New York Stock Exchange has suspended dealings in shares of the Pacific Development Company. This action was taken because no reports of earnings have been received by the board since 1923. The company is in the process of liquidation.

The company was organized under New York laws in 1917 to engage in industrial and commercial development work in the Orient. Its present condition is largely the result of chaotic conditions in China, where it did its most extensive business, the largest asset being a $5,500,000 loan to the Chinese government, which was defaulted in June, 1923.

BETHLEHEM STEEL PAYS DIVIDEND NOT EARNED

Bethlehem Steel reported earnings of about 68 cents a share on preferred shares for year's third quarter. Although the corporation failed to earn its preferred dividends, the directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on the preferred stock, payable January 2, 1925, toa stock of record December 1, 1924.

other domestic affairs of the United States, the Czecho-Slovak newspaper Tribune brags, with good reason, about the military power of the "Little Entente" Czecho-Slovakia, Jugoslavia and Roumania have 400,000 soldiers among them. They could mobilize 3,000,000 on short notice.

Those little nations, very hard up, but very brave and not willing to stand any nonsense, are earnest seekers of loans from the United States. Perhaps the best way for the United States to encourage peace in Europe would be to stop lending money to Europe.

DISTRIBUTION of German bonds in this country will cause many Americans owning the bonds to interest themselves in European affairs. European securities are mercurial. At any minute a war cloud as big as the Kaiser's hand might cause the value of such bonds to crumble. If your money is invested in European securities, watch European NEWS.

COTTON MEN KEEP EYE ON STYLES

Under subject of "Studying the Market" experts will describe at the annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers just how styles are headed, and will reveal possibilities for the future in the manufacture of cotton goods. The meeting will be held November 12 and 13 at the Copley Plaza and will bring together a very large number of the big cotton men of the United States.

John S. Lawrence of Lawrence & Co. of Boston, who was chairman of the All-New England Week committee in the recent notable movement to stimulate industry in New England, will be chairman of the "Studying the Market" session, which will be held on Thursday afternoon, November 13. The speakers at this session will be C. H. Clark, editor of the Textile World and a well-known cotton authority; Daniel E. Walsh, merchandise manager for the Jordan-Marsh Company of Boston, and Lew Hahn, managing director of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. The discussion following will be led by John A. Sweetser.

Harry C. Meserve, secretary of the association, has nearly compteted arrangements for the anual meeting. "The association," he says, in a statement issued in connection with the preparations, "is following closely the revival of the use of cotton, in wearing apparel and the broadening of its general use for household and technical purposes. The development of new fabrics made from cotton, and the knowledge of their superlative wearing qualities, together with their appearance, have been a great factor in this movement.

"The manufacturers are recognizing, as never before, the style element in cotton fabrics, and are prepared to meet this growing demand. The members of the association are constantly on the alert to note, and even to anticipate, the requirements of the buying public."

In connection with the cabaret dinner to be held on Wednesday, the first evening of the convention, an excellent entertainment by professional talent from one of the Boston theatres has been arranged for. Mrs. Morgan Butler is chairman of the entertainment committee for the cabaret dinner.

NORA LEE — A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Then she taught school until her health gave out. Andrew gave them a home of their own. Nora at 17 fell in love with Dane Herrick. Connie gives a lively picnic. Dane's auto runs out of gas, leaving him and Nora stranded in the woods all night.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY

By ELENORE MEHERIN

"THEN you don't believe in one great love and all your life rises up and goes out just to one person forever? That would be the real glory." She looked up at him, almost in tears. "Oh, Dane, I had the queerest notion that you thought this way; that you were different from the others."

"Well—is it all over, then?"

A cold wall of guilt seemed to rise and push them apart. He said miserably: "I never heard a girl talk like this before. They all seem to like the knowing fellows. They jeer at any one who is slow. I didn't think anyone but a fellow's mother cared much about all that. Do you think it makes such a difference, Nora Lee?"

She answered as though her heart were broken: "Oh—yes—"

"Well—is it all over—then?"

She didn't answer.

Dane's Ideals

He went on from the depths of gloom. "Well—there are some things I've thought about, too. I've had a few ideals, I suppose. The big things though. They often seemed idiotic and I've thought of hurling them over, especially just before I met you. But I haven't yet—"

She caught his arm, pressing her face against his shoulder: "Dane—do you mean this? Do you? And you won't, now, will you?"

He flung his arm about her, a sob upon his lips. "Is it enough, Nora Lee?" Is it?"

She took his hand and pressed it against her cheek. "I knew it, Dane, from the first minute I looked at you. You have such a beautiful, clean look——"

The streamers of light seemed falling about them. The dawn came up faintly, like far off silver bells. The sky was aflutter with misty color; soft, golden flowers bloomed and dropped down rosy clouds. Then it was a flaming song burst and all the heavens chiming with crimson and [illegible]

"[illegible] love is so beautiful. Oh, wouldn't it hurt if you and I should kiss [illegible] other?"

[illegible] stooped and kissed her lips and [illegible] his arms about her: "Nora [illegible] I love you!"

[illegible] at each other, trembling [illegible]. Their eyes were [illegible] "Oh Dane—you're [illegible]"

[illegible] and with his hand wiped the tears from her cheeks and drew her gently in his arms. "I didn't know love could be so—so—" His young laugh, "Oh, Nora Lee, you're so heavenly!"

They watched the dawn call back its auroral flowers and sail away in pale tall ships that left a glimmering [illegible] across the sky.

She closed her eyes, a melting tide of sweetness rushing in and flooding up her thoughts. While her eyes were closed he stooped and pressed his lips on hers.

"I Love You"

"Once again, dear Nora Lee. It means I'll love you always."

She laughed, "I know, I know you will."

They trod with buoyant feet on white, sweet almond blossoms, the world aglow with tender lilac hues. All birds that are seemed singing—ladders of song streamed down in sparkling joy and touched their hearts.

At 8 o'clock that clear transparent morning she was phoning to Margaret. Margaret's voice leaped over the wires: "Nora Lee! All right? Dear God—" then Margaret was crying and Nora Lee begging: "Oh, mother, don't—we couldn't help it—we walked and walked—"

Margaret's words choked in a mumble: "Hurry—hurry—"

Dane stood beside her, his hands shaking. When he saw Nora Lee pressing her lips against the phone and suddenly hid her face in her arms, [illegible] down quickly: "Doesn't she believe you, Nora Lee—doesn't she [illegible]?"

"It didn't sound like it—"

"Of course she does—Lord, it was all my fault!"

Margaret was at the window when [illegible] the house. As Nora Lee ran up the steps the door flung open. Margaret caught her in her [illegible] holding her fast as though [illegible] come back from death. She [illegible] the girl's face and went [illegible] in a soft, wild incoherent [illegible] "Oh my darling—darling [illegible]"

Nora Lee besought "Oh, mother—[illegible] you cry? Won't you speak to Dane—I'm here—isn't that enough?—why don't you say something?"

The boy stood there abashed, blinking and claiming all the fault, repeating: "We feel awful about it—please don't blame Nora Lee—"

Margaret seemed not to hear. She asked again and again: "Oh, how could you—the long night here alone—thinking—you killed—thinking—"

Then Andrew came. Finding Nora Lee there already, he laughed. Never was a sound more kind. He talked to Dane, took the boy's hand in his gallant way: "Of course, things like that happen! Did you want them to walk seventy miles, Margaret, and reach here next week instead of this morning?"

Nora Lee threw him a blessed look. She stood proudly on the pure, unshamed threshold of her youth. And it shamed the high sweet beauty—oh it hurt to the heart that even for a moment Margaret would doubt her.

She said in a broken way: "You can go, Dane. Don't feel sorry about a single thing, because you couldn't help it, and you were lovely to me and I'll write to you—"

She fled up the stairs. Andrew's voice rose with arresting gentleness: "Why did you make me unhappy, Margaret? And the poor lad sent away like that?"

"Andrew, the awful fears——"

He seemed to be laughing sadly. "Ah, Margaret, can't you remember back? Youth like theirs—like Nora Lee's—there's nothing on earth more pure."

She came afterward to Andrew and spoke with trembling lips: "You're a darling, Andrew—you just saved everything."

He laughed at her.

She reached her arms about his neck. "Well, you are, Andrew. I heard what you said. Oh, I love you for that. And I want to tell you something—you have the noblest soul on earth."

Deadly White

His face turned deadly white, but he said: "Now, I thank you for that, Nora Lee. That's quite the finest thing ever said to me."

Andrew was exalted in her opinion. He could understand.

Days later she wrote to Dane, a fervid tribute, reiterating love and immortal faith. She said at the close: "No one is braver than you, Dane. I thought it glorious the way you came with me. But I suppose you will want things ended now and won't wish to come to this house any more. Even if this is so and I am never to see you again, you are the love of my life and always will be."

A sense of sublime tragedy filled her thoughts with the sending of this letter. When she looked at Margaret flashing tears blurred her eyes.

Margaret said with a whimsical pathos: "What a hard, unforgiving child I have! Are you never to smile at your mother again?"

"It was cruel in you to treat us so. You never said a word to Dane. I had to send him off—"

"Now see here, Nora Lee—suppose I left you alone all night and didn't phone and you fancied me hurled to death. Then I came walking in fresh and smiling as the early morning—wouldn't you be speechless and glad and terrified all at once?"

"You made Dane think he could never come here again—"

"Oh, no! Did I do that?" Margaret's eyes grew sad because they saw too much. She would have kept Nora Lee from love a few years yet. But she wrote to Dane—a brief, humorous letter and begged their pardons—both of theirs for grieving as foolish mothers [illegible]

He came that very [illegible] no grudge. He said to Nora Lee: "They're all alike. My mother'd do the same—I was coming anyway."

Happy State

So she went about in a state of extraordinary happiness, time reckoned by the letters she wrote and the letters she received. They were not flaming letters, but now and then ardent phrases crept in between paragraphs and these she treasured. They hummed like songs through her mind.

"I never really loved before, Nora Lee, and I'm so glad you haven't. I think of your eyes—they are bluer than any sky I ever saw, bluer than any flower. I wait for your letters. Don't fail me because I can't stay—if you don't answer at once I think of you too much—your face goes across the pages when I try to study. I feel your hand on mine. You know you have the prettiest hands I've ever seen. I wish they were in mine now. I want to kiss you—[illegible]"

She was engrossed in her own emotions. Sometimes she noticed a gaunt, weighted look in Margaret's face. She thought "She doesn't want me to be happy—"

She said to her mother: "Why do you look so?"

Margaret smiled: "How am I looking?"

"Terrible. Anyone would think your heart was breaking."

"It will never break while I have you. Don't you know that?"

"Am I to blame for the way you look?"

Center of the World

Margaret [illegible]. "You're almost the center of the world, Nora Lee. But if I am [illegible] it's no one's fault. Perhaps your mother is only growing old—"

"Oh, don't say that! Some people are only starting life as old as you."

Margaret tried after that to bring the gay light to her eyes; to force the happy, happy laugh to her lips. But a sense of finality, of the ultimate breaking tore her heart to shreds.

The thing that long ago she feared was coming now to pass. She saw it in Andrew's harried face, in the anguished look that came suddenly at times across his mouth. Seven years ago she had doomed him to this.

He laughed when she asked "What is grieving you?"

"Life—Margaret. It has not been easy for us. Or have you found it so?"

A [illegible] grotesque accident had changed the current of Andrew Stewart's life.

One evening he came to the great white house at Fairdale. He saw lights in the wing where his wife's apartments were. He wondered and walked through the garden waiting for them to be dimmed.

He waited an hour. Finally he went in quietly, thinking to reach his room unnoticed.

He had scarcely stepped into the hall when a tall, lean figure clothed in purple stepped across his path. A cold hand was laid on his shoulder and his wife's voice spoke to him.

He stepped back aghast. "Lily! Are you walking?"

A soft, musical laugh. "Andrew, your wife is cured!"

Andrew's wife laid her head against his shoulder. Her hair touched his face. He noticed that it was done high in a yellow flare as on the night of his marriage fifteen years back.

She reached her lean, cold hand to his neck. A clammy sickness wreathed like fogs chilly and touched his face, his hands.

"Andrew, speak—a miracle."

"Lily—"

He knew that her eyes were closed. [illegible] lay against him [illegible]

She [illegible] to the [illegible]. A [illegible], candles lighted, flowers [illegible] and sweet. She smiled: "See!" and walked in a stiff, halting way to the end.

He watched with desperate, incredulous [illegible]. The white face with [illegible] passionate mouth confronting him, cold, triumphant. Her only [illegible] eyes half fawning, half fierce, always like [illegible] flare of brilliant hair, [illegible] and clay-like aspect of her aging cheeks—

Shock Forecast

She asked plaintively: "Are you dumb with joy?"

He took the chair beside her. His lips smiled. "Dumb—well, the [illegible]"

"Poor [illegible] I did it to surprise you."

"You did it? You say you did it? How, Lily—" He remembered all the pronouncement of a great doctor who had [illegible] the ailment that kept this woman helpless and dependent. The doctor said: "Some day a shock will cure her. If your wife is [illegible] in a burning building and no one is there to rescue, she will walk."

MAN SAWS WAY TO LIBERTY AT SALEM JAIL

Salem authorities have instituted a search throughout New England for Florence O'Neil, who escaped from the Salem house of correction by sawing through a bar in his cell door. The authorities are also searching for a young woman who visited O'Neil a short time before he made his escape.

O'Neil was serving a three months' sentence after conviction on the charge of breaking, entering and larceny. He was a trusty about the institution, and cleared off the walks about the House of Correction and delivered messages.

In O'Neil's cell was found his jail clothing. It is believed the young woman who called on him supplied him with a saw and a change of clothing. The escaped prisoner lives at No. 25 Conant street.

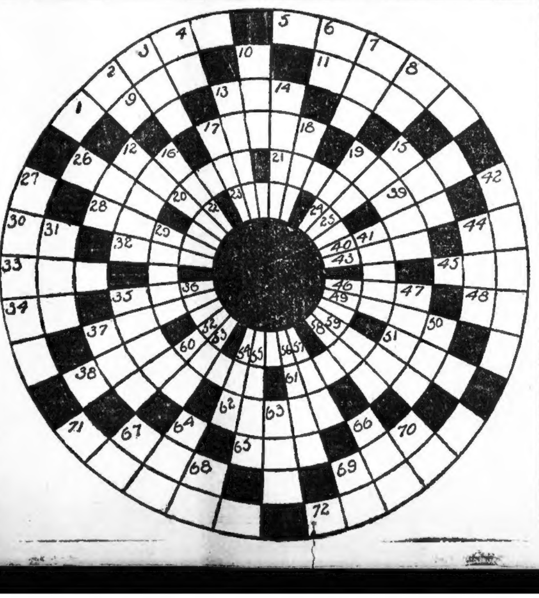
Here's a Circular Twister for You--Don't Get Dizzy



FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

In these days of Franco-German animosities it is hard to believe that Charlemagne, greatest of French kings, was a German, but it is true. The name "France" comes from a German tribe called "Franks" of whom Charles the Great, better known as Charlemagne, was king.

The old Roman province of Gaul had been overrun with German tribes after the break-up of the Roman Empire of the West. The most powerful of these tribes were the Franks who settled in the centre of modern France.

The Frankish king, Clovis, had been converted to Christianity. But it was during the reign of Pepin and more especially under his grandson Charlemagne, the first ruler of the Holy Roman Empire, that the conversion of the Germans to Christianity was mainly effected.

Charles the Great, or Charlemagne, as he was called, was born in 742 A. D. and became the ruler of the whole Frankish kingdom in 771. By rapid conquest he soon ruled over what is now modern France and Bavaria, and extended his sway into Italy, Austria, Hungary, Spain and most of what was before the war modern Germany. Under Charlemagne's rule the first signs of national unity and a serious advance in the progress of order and civilization took place in Western Europe.

The long struggle ended in 804 with the submission of the Saxons, together with the extension of a real authority over the Bavarians, which brought the German races for the first time under a single ruler. War, government, law and religion alike tended to weld them into one people. The general establishment of the Frankish system of government and the presence of Frankish officials helped to break down the barriers of race.

Charlemagne met the rising tide of Saracen conquest, drove the Mahommedans back into Spain and pursued them as far as the River Elbro. It was during his retreat through the Pyrenees that his rear guard was cut off and Rolland, the incomparable warrior, and Charlemagne's great favorite, perished with his men.

By his strong right arm Charlemagne held Western Europe, for Christianity, threatened by the pagans of the north and east and the Saracens of Spain. Strong supporter of the Pope, Charlemagne prevented the Greek Empire from making inroads to the west. When he was crowned emperor of the Romans in 800 A. D. he had restored most of the Roman Empire of the West to its original boundaries.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner

Have you ever stopped to think about all—ALL—that shoes have meant, now mean or may mean to you?

Dr. Mahoney.

Of course you, like everybody else, usually think of shoes simply as protectors of the feet.

They keep out the cold, keep in the warmth and keep you from violent and destructive contact with the things upon which you walk.

This is, indeed, the first and greatest service shoes render you.

But, whether considered service or not, they exert many other kinds of influence upon your feet and, in fact, upon your general comfort and health.

Have you heard about, or maybe seen, the traditional foot of the Chinese woman?

There are a lot of people in America who haven't much more sense. If their feet were not hobbled and kept from growing in infancy and childhood, they insist upon hobbling them now.

They want to look "gentul" and "nobel," as people of that grade of intellect might be expected to spell the words.

The result is that they wear shoes they know are too small. They try to make their feet invisible by pinching the toes together. And they try to make them still more invisible by high heel intended to make the foot look like a part of the leg.

This simply means that the weight of the body in walking is jammed down on the many joints of the feet—joints that were not intended to bear such burdens.

The net result is often permanent distortions that cripple the victim.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

I am troubled with indigestion after eating. Is there a good stomach medicine that I could take for it?

MR. T., Waverly.

I do not give the names of any medicines in this column. Indigestion is usually a symptom of some form of stomach trouble and I would suggest that you have some medical advice as soon as possible if it annoys you too much. You could go to the Out Patient Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital if you have no family physician.

Have been troubled with constipation for a year. The only thing that will do me any good is .... Also have headaches and no appetite.

J. J. M., Roxbury.

I do not wonder that you are suffering from headaches and have no appetite if the condition which you describe is true. Suggest that you stop using the physic you mention and try to correct your diet so that it will not be necessary to use the article you mention.

WHY DOES EDUCATED CAMBRIDGE SAY ITS GIRLS ARE MORE BEAUTIFUL?

All Bostonians know that Cambridge has its quota of feminine beauties and a great many are above par, too. But, in order to keep that beauty well nourished and sparkling, a great part is played behind the scenes by the Cambridge Beauty Shops. They are really "the men behind the guns."

The work is done efficiently by experts in the various lines. Facials, shingles, shampoos and waves of all kinds are done to suit the individual. That is where the power of the artist shows itself.

Minerva has been there but a short while, but, during her stay, she has made for herself a host of friends through her courteous and intelligent service. Her workers are earnest in their endeavor to please and satisfaction usually follows.

Yes, Minerva's little Shoppe at 3 Essex St., Central Sq., is certainly doing its part to help keep up the Beauty of Cambridge and is doing it well.

"Your Hair"
Healthy circulation in the neck-cord is healthy circulation in the scalp. As I work on the neck you will discover that the neck-muscles and ligaments so relax that the scalp becomes loose and warm. You will enjoy the hair-growing feeling it gives your scalp. You should immediately arrange to see me. After one treatment the flesh tingles with the rush of circulation, you feel like new. After a few weeks, your hair grows and glistens with life.

Curley and Other Deserters

Make the Punishment Fit the Crime

Mayor Curley's repudiation of the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution, and the subsequent neglect of the Democratic State Committee, or any responsible officer of that organization, to take Mr. Curley severely to task for that outrageous act of treachery, should be punished one week from next Tuesday by ignominious Democratic defeat all along the line.

No TRUE Democrat, witnessing the amazing spectacle of James M. Curley's vicious assault upon the Child Labor Amendment, beholding the inertia of the Democratic State Committee in the face of that act of treachery, is under ANY OBLIGATION WHATEVER to support the State ticket of his party this year in Massachusetts.

There IS no Democratic ticket this year, in Massachusetts.

There WAS one, until James M Curley pulled away the very foundation of the party platform.

The FIRST PLANK in that platform; let none of us forget how it read:

> "We favor ratification by Massachusetts of the Child Labor Amendment to the United States Constitution, and we urge a 'Yes' vote at the election, on Referendum No. 7."

Who MADE this the first plank, in what was intended to be the 1924 platform of the Democratic party in Massachusetts?

The Democratic State Convention, meeting in Worcester as recently as September 20th.

What IS the State Convention?

The State Convention is an assemblage of duly authorized delegates, representing ALL the members of the Democratic party, in every city and town in the State, and empowered to act FOR THEM.

Were these delegates to the Democratic State Convention elected, or were they appointed?

They were elected, exactly as we elect Senators and Representatives.

And what was their office?

Mainly, to draw up a statement of the political principles upon which the candidates of the party were to go before the people.

Is anyone else, anywhere, authorized to say what IS and what is NOT the belief of the party?

No one; the platform comes from the State Convention.

And you say this year's State Convention of the Democratic party of Massachusetts went on record IN FAVOR of the Child Labor Amendment?

Unanimously—and urged all Democrats to VOTE "YES," on Referendum No. 7.

What has Curley done?

Joined in the Manufacturers' Chorus, insulted the American Federation of Labor and thousands of other good men and noble women by crying "Bolshevik!" declared HIS opposition to the Child Labor plank HE fought for at Worcester.

What has the Democratic State Committee said or done about this act of desertion by the candidate for Governor?

Nothing.

But surely the other Democratic candidates——?

Silent.

ALL of them?

On this fundamental question of the Child Labor Amendment, every one!

How should the situation be described, then?

The candidates on the Democratic State ticket in Massachusetts this year have WALKED OUT ON THEIR PARTY.

And how should loyal Democrats punish them?

An EASY way to get rid of political deserters is to desert THEM.

Paying to Hear

One Worm Turns

In Los Angeles 12,000 citizens paid in good cash $7,500 to hear Senator Wheeler talk for the La Follette ticket.

That's the result of the California Supreme Court decision refusing La Follette's electors a place on the ticket. The people of California don't like to be told they haven't the right to choose their own candidate. Politicians will learn by and by that pulling some strings is dangerous pastime—especially just before election.

Take Care of Your Teeth

Good Dentist, Good Brush, Good Cleaner

Judge Minken of Albany died recently, poisoned by infection of the teeth. Thousands are killed every year by their own teeth, and millions suffer from rheumatism and other troubles, including kidney trouble, because diseased teeth poison the blood.

In the old days, teeth were pulled. Men of middle age as a rule, had few teeth left. They were more fortunate than those whose teeth are preserved by any but skilful dental work. Keeping a dead tooth in a live jaw is dangerous business, unless you have the RIGHT man for the work.

Better have it out. The right FALSE teeth are better than the wrong kind of REAL teeth.

"A clean tooth never decays," says a wise tooth brush man. Get the best brush, the right cleaning substance, keep YOUR TEETH SCIENTIFICALLY CLEAN and you'll LIVE LONGER. It costs little.

We Must Stop That!

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE is just one feminine charm that never fades, shrinks, or "comes off in the wash" of the years.

* * *

* * *

Oh yes, I know, in this age of "efficiency," that sweetness is considered a mid-Victorian weakness.

* * *

But, shush!

* * *

Helen Rowland

You can be beautiful at twenty—but you can be sweet at forty, at sixty, at eighty.

* * *

You can be interesting when you are thrilled or inspired; but you can be sweet when you are bored, or tired, or utterly indifferent.

* * *

You can be brilliant when you have the right audience, the right background, and the right atmosphere—but you can be sweet anywhere, to anybody, any time.

* * *

You can be clever when you are talking to someone who "speaks your language"; but you can be sweet to the man who talks golf, business, Choctaw, Chinese, or bromides.

* * *

You can be strong, when you are bent on getting your own way—but you can be sweet, whether you succeed in getting your way or not.

* * *

You can be witty, sometimes—but you can be sweet ALL of the time!

* * *

You can be good, if you try very, very hard—but you can be sweet, without half-trying.

* * *

SWEETNESS is the one thing in the world, that yields the maximum of returns for the minimum of effort. Let cynics laugh that off!

* * *

Beauty may be only make-up deep; but the charm of sweetness goes clear to the heart and brain. It doesn't rub off like rouge, nor wear out like youth, but lasts forever—like an immortelle or a memory.

* * *

Men admire a beautiful woman, praise a good woman, and are amused by a witty woman—but they LOVE the sweet woman.

* * *

Most of us think of "sweetness" as terribly antique—yet we keep the beauty parlor, the plastic surgeon, and the dressmaker going on all twelve cylinders, in the fond hope that every girl may attain one hundred siren power!

* * *

But, without sweetness, any siren would be a dud.

* * *

And, even in a man, a little sweetness is a delectable thing. Hamlet was right! Most of the sweets of this world DO go "to the SWEET!"

* * *

A few of us can be geniuses, some of us can be efficient—but everybody can be sweet!

* * *

I wonder why so few people are!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

That 18-Year Limit

Editor Boston American:

Thirty-eight States now restrict the labor of boys and girls under 18 by debarring them from certain dangerous occupations, or limiting the number of hours they may work in factories, mines, etc.

That is the reason, as Miss Julia C. Lothrop told us in her recent address, why 18 is proposed as the age up to which Congress may legislate in regard to child labor.

No one advocates or wants a law forbidding boys and girls to go to work before they are 18, much less a law forbidding them to help their parents on the farm or in the home.

Such a law has never been passed by any State, and could not possibly pass Congress. "Trust the 'farm bloc' for that!" said Miss Lothrop. But the 18-year limit will enable Congress to guard boys and girls under 18 against dangerous trades and excessive hours, in the States that now give them no such protection.

Pitiful Case

Helping Hand Editor:

I wish to bring to your attention a very pitiful case. A young mother of twenty-three was deserted by her husband when her baby was but a week old and is now in a state of want trying to take care of three little ones. She cannot work on account of hemorrhages she has had ever since the baby was born. She owes for rent, and I don't think she will be allowed to remain there long as the agent ordered her out by Friday the 24th if she can't pay it. I hope some of your kind readers will lend a hand, as her children are almost starved.

MRS. A. B.

Margaret Grateful

Helping Hand Editor:

I want to thank again all the kind ladies who so generously remembered Margaret. They have made her very happy.

MARY D.

Wants Small Stove

Helping Hand Editor:

I would like to ask if anyone has a small parlor heating stove that they would be willing to let me have if I would send for it. I would be very thankful for it.

C. K.

Clothes to Make Over

Helping Hand Editor:

If you have a mother with small children on your list that can make over clothes, I will send her some which might help her out some.

MRS. D.

Many thanks. Mrs. W. A., mother of several small children, handy with the needle, will be glad to get your offering.

Will Sell Piano

Helping Hand Editor:

If someone would only buy my square Chickering piano, equal in tone to an upright, it would help me out so much as I am way behind with my rent and other bills which must be met, otherwise would not part with it. This will help me greatly.

MRS. M. N.

Father in Distress

Helping Hand Editor:

I am writing to see if there is someone who has some work of any kind for me to do to help provide for my family of five small children. I am 27 years old and am willing to do anything that is honest. I am an experienced inside painter and can also do over baby carriages. Any odd jobs of any kind will be more than welcome, as we are going behind so with bills that I dread to think of the coming Winter. Please will someone try to find something for me, if only a few days a week.

A WORRIED FATHER.

In Need of Bedding

Helping Hand Editor:

Won't some of your kind readers help me. My daughter has just gotten out of the hospital and I am in bed with a bad back and don't know when I will be able to get about again. My husband does not work steady and gets small pay. I am in need of some bedding for this Winter, such as quilts, as I only have one for two beds and the two boys have only coats over them. I hope someone will help me.

MRS. J. W. S.

Fred Pleads for Mother

Helping Hand Editor:

My mother is sick and we are greatly in need of shoes and clothing. There are two boys, ages 11 and 9, and three girls, 6, 3½ and 1½ years old. The boys need pants and blouses, and we cannot go to school because we have nothing to wear. Please also send my mother a dress, coat and pair of shoes; she wears size 38 or 40 clothing and 5 shoes. The doctor says she must go out in the sunshine or she will never get better. We have no one working in the house. Please help us. We will be very glad to get anything.

FRED.

T. B. Victim in Need

Helping Hand Editor:

I am about to go to a sanatorium to be treated for tuberculosis but must have some warm underwear and overcoat, as I will be living practically in the open all Winter. I am six feet tall and broad shouldered. I am without money and all alone in the world. I will forever feel indebted to any of your kind readers who will help me. There are several other articles which the sanatorium requires a patient should provide himself with, such as warm mittens, bathrobe, socks, heavy blanket, etc., but I will be satisfied if someone gives me an overcoat and underwear, as I can do some work there when I feel stronger and buy these things myself.

DECLINE IN CLUBS FOR MEN GOOD SIGN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A NEWS item reports that there is a considerable decline in men's clubs.

This is as it should be, for a club is about the dreariest place in the world. It has been described as an institution kept up by a thousand men for the benefit of ten bachelors.

The club was doubtless originally designed as a man's refuge from women.

As women are becoming more like men, and indulging nowadays in the same callings that men indulge in, men no longer want to escape.

They like to have the women always about the place. One cannot imagine why it was the men ever wanted to escape from them.

Men, when they are together, discuss their food, their work, with an unwholesome solemnity. But to lunch, even in the cheapest hotel or restaurant, is to mingle with humanity in its healthiest and most cheerful mood.

Lunch, in a city club, is one of the most boring and dreary ceremonies imaginable. Men in clubs talk lugubriously in undertones. In restaurants there are laughter and romance. The office is forgotten, the recreation is complete. Staid men and women lose, temporarily, their aging lines and the lacklustre look in their eyes gives way to a genuine sparkle as they mingle with the fresh faces of young lovers snatching precious moments over their food.

The club is an excrescence of the class idea. It is the endeavor of one kind of people to get away from the other kind. It is a phase of the instinct to escape from humanity. But there is no real joy that is not a part of humanity and a man finds out, sooner or later, that happiness runs vertically through all strata and is not confined to a single class.

ARGUMENT CANNOT JUSTIFY TROUSERS

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topicvs of Popular Interest

AS far as I see there is no acceptable argument in favor of long trousers, or pantaloons, as against the various forms of knee-breeches, or knickerbockers. The fact that it is the fashion for men to wear 'em is not a good reason.

Fashion has nothing to do with reason. The case against trousers appears to me to be overwhelming, but their very unreasonableness may be the cause of their apparent popularity.

It is a case worth studying a little. To begin with, just what is the matter with trousers?

First, they are inconsistent with human anatomy. The lower limbs of the human species are notably shapely. In that respect, indeed, they are without rivalry in the animal kingdom. But trousers disguise this comeliness of form, and distort it into ugliness, often to an extreme degree, thus turning the human shape divine into a ridiculous caricature.

A single look at a man with "baggy trousers" is enough to establish the truth of this charge in any unprejudiced mind. Put a man who knows that his trousers are strained out of shape at his knees, in the middle of a drawing room, with dozens of pairs of eyes regarding him, and his own feelings immediately pronounce sentence against the offending garment.

Observe the care with which young men tenderly draw up their trousers at the knee when taking a seat. It is an unspoken complaint and condemnation. It is silent proof of rebellion against the humiliating tyranny of the unesthetic trouser leg. And yet, the tyranny flourishes.

And sculptors eternize the memory of it by pillorying otherwise great-looking men in bronze or marble trousers! Historic truth alone can thus be pleased; for nobody can deny that that is how we look at present.

Not only are trousers inconsistent with human anatomy, and so offensive to the eye, but they do not serve their purpose as well as it is served by garments of the knickerbocker type. These can be made entirely free from the objectionable features that sartorial eccentricity sometimes imposes.

It would be practicable, if desired, to construct them so that they would possess the sole advantage of trousers, which is, facility of donning. This could be accomplished by cutting the garment so that the part below the knee conformed to the shape of the lower leg. As all its victims are aware, it is the lower part of the trouser leg that is the offender.

After you have curled your legs under your chair, with ecstatic absorption in your work, suddenly rise to receive a lady caller. A casual glance at yourself in a mirror will shoot through you the pride-piercing sentiment which, tradition says, causes the peacock to drop its gorgeous fan. It is a rare man, indeed who does not care about his looks.

Even Napoleon was proud of his neat little foot. I doubt if any tailor or any dictator of fashion, could have forced him to wear trousers.

Every mechanical law is violated or, rather, maliciously obeyed by the lower half of the trouser leg. It also defies the law of utility and economy. It is like a loose sail flapping in the wind, and, as far as it can, impeding motion. The cloth of which is is composed is wasted as far as either useful purpose or decorative effect is concerned.

The curved line is not always "the line of beauty," and least of all when it is displayed in the discordant forms assumed by this detestable garment. There is every reason, however, why tailors and dealers in cloth should favor the continuance of the reign of trousers, because not only does it call for an unnecessary amount of material but it also forces those who cling to the desire of always looking as well as they can in the eyes of their contemporaries to buy two pairs of trousers with every suit of clothes and to supplement that precautionary measure by laying in odd pairs which may "go with" any kind of coat.

I know a man who keeps eighteen pairs of trousers in his wardrobe, and yet his knees are not always beyond criticism. This is something to be "admired"—in the old sense of the word. It is neither art nor science.

WATCH YOUR BALLOT

ARE you familiar with the seven referendum questions which will appear on the State ballots on Election Day, November 4?

Many persons are not.

For their information the Boston American is publishing these questions and a concise explanation of each.

They will be run daily, and those who are unfamiliar with them are advised to clip each question and explanation for reference on Election Day.

They will enable voters to cast their ballots intelligently.

Referendum Question No. 2—Amendment to Constitution

Shall an amendment to the constitution to enable women to hold any State, county or municipal office, and which further provides that a change of name of any woman, holding a Notary Public Commission, shall not render her commission void but she shall re-register under her new name and shall pay such fee therefor as shall be established by the General Court, which received in a joint session of the two Houses held May 24, 1921, 216 votes in the affirmative and none in the negative, and at a joint session of the two Houses held May 10, 1923, received 258 votes in the affirmative and none in the negative, be approved?

YES
NO

Referendum question No. 2 provides that women who hold commissions as notaries public shall be allowed to retain her commission by simply re-registering under her new name. When she re-registers she pays the usual fee.

Referendum No. 3 will be printed here tomorrow.
